AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION.

NOT A FEW

Of the worst disorders that affect mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the blood. Of all the discoveries that have been made to purge it out, none can equal in effect Helmbold's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla. It cleanses and renovates the blood, instils the vigor of health into the system, and purges out the humors which make disease. It stimulates the healthy functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grow and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy, that could be relied on, has long been sought for, and now, for the first time, the public have one on which they can depend. Our space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects, but the trial of a single bottle will show the sick that it has virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken.

Two tablespoonfuls of the Extract of Sarsaparilla, added to a pint of water, is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarsaparilla or the decoction as usually made.

☞ THESE EXTRACTS HAVE BEEN ADMITTED TO USE IN THE UNITED STATES ARMY, and are also in very general use in all the State HOSPITALS and PUBLIC SANITARY INSTITUTIONS throughout the land, as well as in private practice, and are considered as invaluable remedies.

THE SHENANDOAH.

Surrender of the Rebel Pirate to the United States Consul at Liverpool.

Letter from Capt. Waddell to Earl Russell.

The Rebel Corsair Chief Seeks to Justify his Piratical Conduct.

He Was Unwilling to Credit the Statements of American Sea Captains.

The British Government Order his Unconditional Release.

They Can Discover No Legal Grounds for His Detention.

The Crew Paid Off in American Dollars and Sent Ashore.

The steamship China, which arrived at Halifax last evening, brings intelligence of the unconditional release of the Captain and crew of the pirate Shenandoah, the British Government being of opinion that there were no legal grounds upon which they could be detained.

CAPT. WADDELL'S LETTER TO EARL RUSSELL.

In the letter which Capt. WADDELL addressed to Earl RUSSELL immediately on arriving in the Mersey, the corsair chief thus attempts to justify his conduct in destroying American vessels long after the war had closed:

"In obedience to orders, I found myself in the Arctic and Ochotsk Seas, far removed from the ordinary channels of commerce, and, in consequence of this awkward circumstance, I was engaged in acts of war until the 28th of June. I was ignorant of the reverses suffered by the Confederates, and the total obliteration of the government under which I acted. I received the first intelligence of the downfall of the Confederate cause on the 2d of August, from the British bark Barracouta, and desisted immediately from further acts of war until I could communicate with a European port, and learn if the intelligence was true. I could not have been sensible that the tales told by American ships were true, but merely upon the statement of a British Captain I diligently sought for a precedent in law writers for guidance in the future control, management and final disposal of the vessel, but found none." Finding the authority questionable under which he acted, he immediately ceased cruising, and shaped her course for the Atlantic. He did not feel justified in destroying the vessel, but, on the contrary, thought the ship should revert to the American Government. He therefore sought Liverpool to learn the news, and if not without foundation, to surrender the ship, with her guns, stores and apparel complete, to the British Government, for such disposition as it should deem proper.

SURRENDER OF THE SHENANDOAH TO THE UNITED STATES CONSUL.

On the 10th inst. the Shenandoah was surrendered to the American Consul, who took formal possession and placed her under Capt. FREEMAN, with a crew of his own selection, to be conveyed to New-York.

RELEASE OF THE CREW.

At 6 o'clock on the evening of the 8th, Capt. PAYNTER, of Her Majesty's ship Donegal, received orders from London to liberate such of the crew of the Shenandoah as were not British subjects. On inquiry it was found that there was no British subject on board, at least no one claimed that honor, although the accent of many seemed to the contrary. It appears that the Shenandoah did not enter the Tagus or ship a new crew at Lisbon.

Capt. PAYNTER immediately after receiving orders, engaged the Rock Ferry boats for the purpose of conveying the men ashore. At 8 o'clock the Fairy steamer landed the first portion at the south end of the small landing-stage.

The disembarkation presented a strange scene of excitement. Rejoicing was visible on the countenances of officers and men, and many made free boasts of the fact that the Shenandoah displayed the last Confederate flag. They stood in busy groups about the landing stage, eagerly canvassing their future prospects. Most of them seemed puzzled by their own position. How they came to be liberated, and on what grounds, they were not very clear about, though at the fact itself they were all particularly elated. To inquiries made by individuals among the crowd of bystanders, both officers and men replied that they had been liberated unconditionally to go whithersoever they pleased. As the intelligence reached town crowds of people assembled on the stage, those who had Southern proclivities making themselves particularly agreeable to the men of the Shenandoah, and a general curiosity being manifest to hear the details of the operations of the notorious. So many a yarn of daring adventure was unwound, while the luggage was being packed or vehicles provided. During the last seven months, some of the crew said, the men were particularly anxious to get ashore, as they had become tired of their wild life; and from the conversation of some, it seems pretty certain that aboard the Shenandoah the news of the cessation of the late war was believed, however lacking positive information may have been. One unfortunate, who had been taken from a whaler sunk by the Shenandoah, seemed glad enough to be quit of her. Altogether, some 130 men disembarked on the landing-stage, one sick man being left in charge of the officers of the Donegal.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

From the Liverpool Courier, Nov. 9.

Early last evening the officers and crew of the Shenandoah were liberated upon parole, and landed at Liverpool. We are informed that the order for parole was received by Capt. PAYNTER, of the Donegal, early in the afternoon, and that immediately after it was communicated to Capt. WADDELL. Capt. WADDELL then came on shore and had an interview with some Southern gentlemen, after which he returned to his ship and paid off and discharged the crew. At 7 o'clock the men left the Shenandoah in the Rock Ferry Company's steamer Bee, and at 8 o'clock they were landed upon the George's Landing-stage. But few spectators were present to witness the arrival of the crew so renowned for their exploits, owing doubtless to the fact that their parole was not known even to themselves until a short time before their landing. Each of them brought on shore a large quantity of luggage, and they appeared to have no lack of money—facts which appeared to attest that their long cruise has not been unrewarded. The news of their arrival soon spread, and crowds of persons collecting on the stage formed themselves into groups around the sailors and endeavored to draw them into conversation. These attempts, however, rarely succeeded, and when they did it was evident that the men spoke rather to evade curiosity than to satisfy it. The men, indeed, appeared to be themselves quite in the dark as to their position and though under the impression that they had done with the Shenandoah for good and all, appeared to labor under a fear of committing themselves or their officers by some rash statement. Some of them eagerly questioned the bystanders as to what the English people thought of the Shenandoah, and two or three of them expressed the greatest surprise that the officers of that vessel should even have been suspected of pursuing their work of destruction with a knowledge of the termination of the war. The men, though exhibiting a marked reticence on matters connected with the discipline of the ship, speak freely of the circumstances which led the Shenandoah to terminate her privateering career, namely, the meeting with the ship Barracouta, which the crew are unanimous in alleging as the first source through which reliable information was received of the termination of the war.

Many of the crew of the Shenandoah are Liverpool men, and these immediately on being landed drove off to their homes. Of the others a few went to private boarding-houses, and others to the Sailors' Home.

The men declare that they are at perfect liberty to do what they choose, and that their discharge is unconditional. At all events they have been paid off in American dollars, and many of them will no doubt today be on their way to other parts of the country.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 21.

THE NEW-YORK COLLECTORSHIP.

The appointment of a Collector for the Port of New-York is not likely to be made before the meeting of Congress.

TREASURY REGULATIONS.

The Treasurer of the United States, Gen. F. E. SPINNER, has issued a supplement to regulations respecting the semi-annual return and payment of duties by national banking associations. The Treasurer says the numerous errors made by recently organized banks, in estimating semi-annual duty, causes the supposition that the regulations respecting the statements furnished by the Treasurer, are not read or understood by the officers making the estimates. The method of making the statement contained in the regulations, is legally correct, and the books in the Treasurer's office are so made as to admit of their record in no other method. There must, therefore, be no alteration of the printed portion of the form, by interlineation, erasure, or otherwise. Statements will be returned to banks for correction until they are made to conform to the method contained in the regulations and form.

THE SUBSISTENCE DEPARTMENT.

The bids for furnishing the Subsistence Department with flour opened to-day. The bids were quite numerous, and show a falling off of twenty cents per barrel since the last letting of flour in this department. One thousand barrels No. 1, were accepted to-day at $10 80, and fourteen hundred No. 2, at $10 19 and $10 25.

GREENBACK FRACTIONAL CURRENCY.

All fractional currency hereafter issued will be uniformly greenback.

PROMOTED FOR GALLANT CONDUCT.

Col. DURBIN WARD, late Colonel of the Seventeenth Ohio Volunteers, has been breveted Brigadier-General for gallant and meritorious conduct on the battle-field of Chickamauga. Gen. WARD has resigned his commission and entered upon the practice of law in Washington.

TRANSPORTATION TO GARRISONS.

By command of Gen. GRANT, the regulations for transportation allowed to garrisons is altered so as to allow for posts garrisoned by one company, and for every two companies at a post, one four-mule wagon or an equivalent in horse teams and carts, when needed for public service.

CHANGE IN A MILITARY AGENCY.

Col. HENRY P. LANTZ, of Indiana, Military Agent in this city, has been removed, and Capt. L. B. WILSON appointed in his place. There is no charge touching his competency, or of any mismanagement in connection with the legitimate business of the office; but that he has been aiding and assisting Hon. GEORGE W. JULIAN, Member of Congress from the Fifth District of Indiana as against Gov. MORTON.

MILITARY CEMETERIES.

An order has been issued to officers of the Quartermaster's Department, requiring them to make special report of the location and condition of military cemeteries known to them, with recommendation of the means of preserving the remains of soldiers from desecration.

SOUTH CAROLINA TAXES.

W. H. TRESCOTT, the agent for South Carolina, had an interview with the Secretary of the Treasury today on the subject contained in the following letter addressed to the Tax Commissioners in that State by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20, 1865.

GENTLEMEN: I am instructed by the Secretary of the Treasury to say that his order indefinitely postponing the sale of lands for direct taxes in the insurrectionary districts, and heretofore communicated to you, was intended to embrace all lands of whatever character or description situate in those districts. You will, therefore, postpone indefinitely your sales of lots, blocks and houses situate in the town of Beaufort, S. C., and advertised to take place on the 6th of December next.

NO CHOLERA AT MARSEILLES.

The United States Consul at Marseilles reports to the State Department that the cholera has entirely disappeared from that city. Passengers going east from Marseilles now have an unobstructed passage with their baggage to Paris.

BIDS FOR SUPPLIES.

Bids for furnishing the subsistence department of of the army with 1,000 barrels No. 1 flour at $10 80, have been accepted, and also 1,400 barrels No. 2 flour at from $10 19 to $10 25.

PARDONS.

But few pardons are now granted, and the Attorney-General's office has been relieved temporarily of the presence of applicants.

THE CITY COUNCILS ON NEGRO SUFFRAGE.

The Board of Aldermen have unanimously passed the resolution from the Board of Council: "That in the event any bill be introduced in Congress for the admission of the colored men of this city to the right of suffrage, the Mayor be and he is hereby authorized and directed to call Councils together within two days' notice, for the purpose of taking into consideration measures for holding a special election to ascertain the sentiments of the people on the subject."

It may be stated in this connection that many of the property holders of Washington are anxious that the corporation charters shall be surrendered, and the government of the city placed in the hands of a Board of Commissioners, appointed by the President of the United States, as at its early history; their object being to quiet the agitation of the suffrage question, as well as to secure economy and greater benefits in the expenditure of the money collected from them by the present system of taxation.

DEFENCE OF GEN. BAKER.

To-day's Daily Chronicle contains an article in defence of Gen. L. C. BAKER, Chief-Detective of the War Department, saying:

"Notwithstanding the terrible outcry against him, he still has the confidence of the department to which he is attached;" adding: "Gen. BAKER does not fail in all instances to report his acts to his superior officer. This he is bound to do, and we are sure the War Department, which is better advised of all the facts than any of Gen. BAKER's traducers can be, has not yet found occasion to censure him for any of those things which have been so magnified and distorted by a portion of the press."

The Chronicle also says Gen. BAKER has not committed a single person to the Old Capitol Prison for more than two years, and that he has not been authorized to do so since the latter part of 1863.

HUMPHREY MARSHALL IN WASHINGTON.

HUMPHREY MARSHALL, of Kentucky, is among the latest arrivals of those who were prominent in the rebellion.

ILLNESS OF GOV. HOLDEN.

Information was received here to-day that Gov. HOLDEN, of North Carolina, is ill at Raleigh.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS IN WASHINGTON.

There are not more than half-a-dozen members of Congress in the city.

PACIFIC RAILROAD BONDS.

It has been decided by the Comptroller of the currency that Pacific Railroad bonds issued by the United States will be received as security for circulating notes of national banks, and circulation will be issued upon deposit of such bonds at the rate of 80 per cent. of their par value.

DANGEROUS COUNTERFEIT.

An excellent imitation of the new issue of the fifty cent fractional currency has been received at the Treasury Department. It is considered to be the best executed counterfeit yet put in circulation. It can, however, be easily distinguished from the original by the coloring and in the signature of Gen. SPINNER, the last "e" having been omitted. The Secretary has decided to alter the general appearance of the present issue of fractional currency, in order to make it uniform and to better protect it from counterfeiting. In future all new issues will be of the greenback circulation.

The Inman steamship City of Manchester, for New-York direct, also left Liverpool on the same day as the China.

GREAT BRITAIN.

FURTHER CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN ADAMS AND RUSSELL.

A supplement to the London Gazette contains further additional correspondence between Mr. ADAMS and Earl RUSSELL, relative to the departure of cruisers for the rebels from England. RUSSELL repeats the argument that the British Government acted upon precedent, and supplies memorandum showing that steps were taken to prevent and punish breaches of neutrality. Every representation of the American Minister was considered immediately, and referred, when necessary, to the law officers, without delay.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

The London Times says that it is impossible for the American Government to abandon the claims for the depredations of the Alabama, but it is quite possible for a government to yield nothing, yet do nothing. We must prepare to be told that the United States will abate no jot of its demands, and will reserve the right of enforcing them—but still, when the temper of the people is calmed, when commerce has had time to renew the links which bind the two nations together, when the memories of war fade into the past, there will be little disposition to dwell on unfortunate, but inevitable casualties.

The London Daily News confidently dismisses the supposition that the Alabama claims can become a direct cause of war between the two countries, but it trusts that something will yet be done to bring the dispute to an early practical settlement, for it is one which can in no other way be disposed of. It would be an eternal disgrace if both governments should confess themselves unable to find any but a violent solution of their differences; but there is a state of nominal peace which has many of the disadvantages of war.

EARL RUSSELL ON THE NEW MINISTRY.

Earl RUSSELL attended the Lord Mayor's banquet on the 5th. In a speech he paid a tribute to the memory of PALMERSTON. Adverting to the last reconstruction of the Cabinet, he said he had received the fullest support from his colleagues, with the remark on its policy that he trusted the country would allow time to consider the course they ought to pursue, and he should abide by the principles of his life. The government deemed it their duty to consult the wishes of the people, and it would be for Parliament to consider how far those wishes were based on justice. He thanked God the American war was over; and he trusted the republic, now freed from the sin of slavery, would go on and prosper for centuries to come.

The Daily News says the reception of RUSSELL at the banquet was a practical reply to the detraction, which had lately pursued the government. RUSSELL's language could only be used by men who feel the important measures expected of them, and are willing to encourage the hope.

The Star says: "The effect of the speech was rather an encouragement to the cause of reform."

THE MINISTRY.

It is reported that MILNER GIBSON had been offered the post of the First Lord of the Admiralty, and that the Duke of SOMERSET would be Secretary of War.

TELEGRAPHIC CABLE FOR BEHRING STRAITS.

It is understood that the Western Union Telegraph Company had contracted with Mr. HENRY, of North Woolwich, for the manufacture of 500 knots of submarine cable for Behring Straits, and 5,000 miles of galvanized telegraph wire for land lines.

MAIL SERVICE BETWEEN BREST AND NEW-YORK.

The subsidized mail steam service between Brest and New-York is likely to cause considerable acceleration of postal and passenger traffic between France and America. The steamers, which will be similar to the Scotia, are building in the Clyde. The first one was launched on the 4th. It is expected that the French merchants will be enabled to mail letters to Saturday night, as the British merchants now are.

THE FENIANS.

The commission for the trial of the Fenians opens on the 27th, at Dublin.

The Fenians had applied to the Court of Queen's Bench for criminal information against the proprietors of the Freeman's Journal, for publishing Archbishop CULLEN's pastoral, the publication being likely to prejudice the Fenians at the approaching trial.

JOHN DONOVAN, son of the late eminent Irish antiquarian, had been committed for trial on a charge of treason. Bail was refused. He had been giving lectures to the Fenians on "The Use of the Rifle."

PERSONAL.

Sir C. WOOD, Secretary of State for India, met with an accident, while hunting, but was proceeding favorably.

TOM SAYRES, the pugilist, is dead. He died of a lung disease.

FRANCE.

M. DUPIN, Procureur General, died on the 9th.

The Emperor and the Empress left Paris on the 11th, for Compeigne.

The Paris Bourse on the 11th was firm. Rentes closed at 68f. 55c.

ITALY.

The Italian Parliament had been prorogued till the 18th inst.

The King had gone to Naples, the cholera there having increased.

The Paris Presse and Temps state that the Italian Government has decided upon making a considerable reduction in the army.

The Abendpost repeats that the sentiments of the Italian finance minister are hostile to Austria. So long as the thought of acquiring Venetia is officially proclaimed as the real policy of Italy, any understanding is impossible. The establishment of settled international relations is doubtless desirable, but any concession would involve no change in the Austrian policy on the Venetian question.

It is reported that Italy is about to reduce its army considerably.

AUSTRIA.

The General Correspondenza announces that by order of the Emperor all necessity for passports on the Austrian frontier will cease.

Arnold, 550 barrels; California, 950 barrels; Hercules, 900 barrels; and two or three others are reported at Nilo, without names or particulars.

Stormy Weather—The Incoming Steamers Obliged to Run to Sea.

SAN FRANCISCO, Tuesday, Nov. 21.

Nineteen thousand cases of DOWNER & LEVAL's coal oil were sold at auction to-day at 93½c.@$1 ⅌ gallon.

THE COAL REGIONS.

A Visit to the Collieries by Prominent Government Officers.

POTTSVILLE, Penn., Tuesday, Nov. 21.

Senator JOHN SHERMAN, of Ohio, and Messrs. DAVID WELLS, of New-York, and STEPHEN COLWELL, of Pennsylvania, United States Revenue Commissioners, who left Philadelphia yesterday morning for the purpose of visiting the middle coal region of Pennsylvania, under the auspices of the Reading and Lehigh Valley Railroad Companies, reached Mount Carbon last evening, accompanied by a number of distinguished gentlemen from Philadelphia, New-York and Boston. At Reading a cursory observation was made of the shops of the Reading Railroad Company. To-day the party have been engaged in visiting the collieries.

MOUNT CARBON, Tuesday, Nov. 21.

After visiting the coal mines the party returned here, and were serenaded. Senator SHERMAN made a brilliant speech, alluding to the great value of coal, both in peace and in war. Gov. RAMSEY, Gen. SIMON CAMERON, Mayor MCMICHAEL, of Philadelphia, and Mr. DERBY, of Boston, also made speeches.

MOUNT CARBON, Tuesday, Nov. 21.

Senator SHERMAN was serenaded this evening. During the course of his speech he said: "During the war government was compelled to resort to the utmost limits of taxation; but I am happy to say that the business of Congress will be, after securing peace upon the basis of universal liberty, to relieve ourselves from taxation no longer necessary. In making this reduction we naturally look to those articles, the chief cost of which is low labor. The foundation of wealth is and should be as free from burdens as the air. The cheerfulness with which all classes and occupations bore taxes during the war, makes it doubly the duty of Congress to lessen and equalize the taxes now. I confidently anticipate that in a short time the duties on imported goods, a moderate income tax, and taxes on luxuries, will enable us honorably to perform all our obligations.

THE PRIZE RING.

Attempt to Stop the Fight Between Davis and Elliott.

ALBANY, Tuesday, Nov. 21.

By 4 o'clock this morning a great crowd of roughs had assembled at the Susquehanna Railroad depot to take a special train for the scene of the anticipated prize-fight between DAVIS and ELLIOTT, but the police were on hand in large numbers, and President RAMSEY, of the Susquehanna Railroad, would not let the chartered train go out. The regular 7:30 train was also delayed and no train was sent out until 11 o'clock.

The principals, with some friends, reached Esperance, Schoharie County, last evening, and some believe the fight is now going on, although a cold rain has been falling for several hours.

It is understood in police circles that the fight has been postponed until Thursday, and that it will not be fought in this State.

SECOND DISPATCH.

ALBANY, Tuesday, Nov. 21—2 P. M.

The DAVIS and ELLIOTT fight has been prevented by the authorities. The Susquehannah Railroad Company refused to allow the friends of both parties to proceed to the fight, and the police were at the depot and locked the cars, creating great dissatisfaction among the roughs.

It is asserted by some that the fiasco was engineered by ELLIOTT and his friends, to gather bets.

There have been several robberies committed by the thieves who accompanied the mob, and the people of Albany are very much alarmed.

LETTER BY PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

An Interesting Disclosure of His Views Before He was Nominated for the Presidency.

From the Cincinnati Commercial, Nov. 20.

Newspaper rumors have been rife as to some disagreement between President JOHNSON and Chief-Justice CHASE as to DAVIS' trial, and perhaps the imputed disinclination of the latter to act personally in a case of this nature, may be explained by the publication of the following letter of the late President LINCOLN to a gentleman in Columbus, Ohio, in reply to a proposition made July 23, 1859, in behalf of sundry Republicans in Ohio, for him to become a candidate for the Presidency in consequence of the dissatisfaction then felt at the rejection of Judge SWAN for refusing, in the Oberlin fugitive-slave cases, to sanction the doctrine of resistance by State nullification to an obnoxious law held valid by the Supreme Court of the United States. The rumored preparations made then (CHASE being Governor) to enforce this States' Rights heresy by military force, if the Supreme Court of Ohio had decided to release the prisoners on habeas corpus, and the attempt to engraft that secession dogma in the party creed led to the correspondence, and this is Mr. LINCOLN's answer:

SPRINGFIELD, Illinois, July 28, 1859.

MY DEAR SIR: Your very complimentary, not to say flattering letter of the 23d instant, is received. Dr. R...... had induced me to expect you here, and I was disappointed not a little by your failure to come—and yet I fear you have formed an estimate of me which can scarcely be sustained on a personal acquaintance.

Two things done by the Ohio Republican Convention—namely, the repudiation of Judge SWAN, and the "plank" for a repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law—I very much regretted. These two things are of a piece, and they are viewed by many good men, sincerely opposed to slavery, as a struggle against, and in disregard of, the constitution itself; and it is the very thing that will greatly endanger our cause, if it be not kept out of our National Convention. There is another thing our friends are doing which gives me some uneasiness. It is their leaning toward "popular sovereignty." There are three substantial objections to this: First, no party can command respect which sustains this year what it opposed last. Secondly, DOUGLAS (who is the most dangerous enemy of liberty, because the most insidious one,) would have but little support in the North, and, by consequence, no capital to trade on in the South, if it were not for our friends thus magnifying him and his humbug. But lastly, and chiefly, DOUGLAS' popular sovereignty, accepted by the public mind as a great principle, nationalizes slavery, and revives the African slave trade inevitably. Taking slaves into new territories, and buying slaves in Africa, are identical things—identical rights or identical wrongs—and the argument which establishes one will establish the other. Try a thousand years for a sound reason why Congress shall not hinder the people of Kansas from having slaves, and when you have found it, it will be an equally good one why Congress should not hinder the people of Georgia from importing slaves from Africa.

As for Gov. CHASE, I have a kind side for him. He was one of the few distinguished men of the nation who gave us their sympathy last year. I never saw him—suppose him to be able and right-minded, but still he may not be the most suitable as a candidate for the Presidency.

I must say, I do not think myself fit for the Presidency. As you propose a correspondence with me, I shall look for your letters anxiously.

I have not met Mr. R. since receiving your letter, but when I shall, I will present your respects as requested.

Yours, very truly,
A. LINCOLN.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

GEN. GRANT'S DEPARTURE.

The Rain Prevents a Formal Parade—Visits of the General to the Post-Office, the Mercantile Library and Brady's Photographic Gallery—Quiet Departure of the General and Suite for Washington.

The departure of Lieut.-Gen. Grant for Washington yesterday was a very quiet affair. As was announced in the Times, considerable preparations were made by the military to give him a fitting escort on his departure from the city, and the Seventh Regiment was ordered out as such. The original programme looked toward a formal progress down Broadway, from the hotel to the foot of Cortlandt-street, the General to be placed in an open carriage, so that all who wished might see the leader of our victorious armies. The preparations were good—much better than any previously arranged—but the weather prevented their fruition.

On rising yesterday morning from the fatigues and excitement of the reception at the Fifth-avenue Hotel, Gen. Grant saw that the storm would prevent any popular demonstration as was expected would be the case. Sending for some of the leading spirits in the proposed final arrangements, the General requested that all idea of a parade might be at once abandoned. His wishes were reluctantly complied with, and the order for the parade of the escort was accordingly countermanded.

The Lieutenant-General was then besieged by the Generals of the First Division to remain over until next Friday to review the militia, which will parade in commemoration of Evacuation Day, but Gen. Grant said it would be impossible for him to do so, as his presence in Washington was an absolute necessity, and that his absence from official duties had already been too far prolonged.

The day being so dreary for railway traveling, and no official ceremony necessitating the party to leave during midday, Gen. Grant determined to defer his departure until evening. Mrs. Grant remained all day at the Metropolitan Hotel, recovering from the fatigues of the night previous. Several superb baskets and bouquets of flowers were sent in during the day for Mrs. Grant and her daughter, Miss Nellie—one presented by Mr. A. T. Stewart being especially noticeable for its beauty. The General, accompanied by Col. Hillier, formerly a leading member of his personal staff, visited the Post-office, having a really pleasant reception. Hon. James Kelly, the efficient head of the department, welcomed the General in a neat and complimentary speech, and the employes greeted him with rousing cheers as he passed through the various departments. One of the most interesting episodes occurring was the meeting between the one-armed veterans, who now hold honorable positions in the Post-office, and the Lieutenant-General. Several of these brave fellows had served with the General either in the West or before Richmond, and their greetings were both cordial and characteristic. Gen. Grant made his usual speech in reply to the welcoming address of Postmaster Kelly, simply thanking him for his kindness. As he passed from room to room, escorted by the worthy Postmaster, the employes paused for a few moments in their busy work, and cheered loudly, the General, lifting his hat in response. When the maimed veterans met his eye, as they stood drawn up in line, he was visibly interested, and gave them each a few cheering words, expressive of his pleasure that Mr. Kelly had so far recognized patriotic valor, in organizing the new system of mail-carriers.

After a tour of the building, Gen. Grant retired to his carriage amid loud cheering from the employes. Driving up Broadway, the next place visited was the Mercantile Library, where the General examined the new picture, by Mr. H. Balling, entitled "Grant and His Generals," and expressed his pleasure at the admirable manner in which the artist had handled the subject.

On leaving the Library Gen. Grant drove down to Brady's photographic gallery, and afforded Mr. Brady's artist an opportunity to give some necessary touches to a set of photographs of the Lieutenant-General, lately ordered by Sir Morton Peto and party. After taking a brief stroll around the gallery, and viewing some of the more recent additions to Mr. Brady's collection, the General returned to the hotel for dinner.

The departure of the General and suite, for Washington, was made without any show or parade. Several friends assembled to bid him farewell, and escorted him to the carriages. On arriving at the depot the party soon ensconced themselves in the sleeping-car—rooms having been secured for their accommodation. Thus ended the visit of Lieut.-Gen. Grant to New-York.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH.

Action of the Congregation—The Edifice to be Rebuilt on the Old Site—Fifty-two Thousand Dollars Subscribed Last Night.

Between two and three hundred of the male members of St. George's Church assembled at the chapel, Monday evening, to make arrangements for the future, and to raise funds for a new church. A few ladies were also present.

Mr. Lane called the meeting to order, and nominated Rev. Dr. Tyng as Chairman.

Dr. Tyng opened the exercises with a fervent and impressive prayer, in which he alluded to the recent disaster the congregation had met with, and appealed to Almighty God for divine guidance and assistance.

Dr. Tyng then explained the object of the meeting, and said that the pew-holders had been called together by the vestry to consider the present condition of the church, and unite upon some course of action. In order that a fair consideration of the matter might be had, Dr. Tyng said he had prepared a statement of the history and present condition of St. George's Church.

That statement read as follows:

1. In March, 1846, the Vestry of George's Church determined to erect a new church in the upper part of the city.

2. At that time they were in possession of thirty lots of land in the lower part of the city, valued by a Committee of the Vestry at $183,000.

3. They subsequently received about $45,000 for pews sold in the new church.

4. They erected their church, rectory and chapel at a cost of about $340,000.

5. The whole of this cost was paid by the sale of the lots above referred to, and the money received for pews.

6. The corporation has been without debt since 1850.

7. They retained from their lots, and the proceeds of their lots, $100,000, to be kept permanently invested as an endowment for the support of the ministry of the church.

8. The pew rents were fixed at a lower valuation and rate than in any of the late new churches in the city.

9. The net pew rents received have averaged, for the seventeen years past, $10,000—perhaps a little more.

10. The net income from the endowment fund has been about $6,000. This endowment consists of ground rents, houses rented, and government securities.

11. The annual expenses of the church, including repairs upon the property, have always absorbed the whole income of the church.

12. The insurance on the church was $70,000, and $10,000 on the organ and furniture.

13. To rebuild the church on its present location, this insurance is the whole sum within the control of the corporation.

14. The cost of restoration of this church on its present location, would be probably not short of from $150,000 to $200,000.

15. In rebuilding the church here, or elsewhere, two postulates are to be assumed as binding:

First—That the endowment of $100,000 must not be expended or diminished for building.

Second—That no debt must be left on the new building to absorb the future income of the church by its interest and extinction, or to harass and destroy the power and energy of the church for usefulness, by its bondage and anxiety.

16. In any plans of rebuilding, two questions arise for settlement:

First—Shall we build again on this location, or shall we remove?

Second—If we rebuild here, shall we restore the church in general consistency with its former aspect, allowing only such modifications of the interior as may be found desirable or expedient for convenience or economy?

17. During the interval of building, while worshiping in other places which may be found for the use of the congregation, will the pewholders consent to the assessment and collection of the same pew rents, or equal sums to them, as they have been accustomed to pay for the support of the ministry and worship of the congregation?

Dr. Tyng continued and said that propositions had been made to the Vestry to rebuild St. George's as it was before the fire, for $120,000, without the organ and clock; or to rebuild it, making it fire-proof, and finishing it in a more ornamental style, for about $196,000.

Judge Vanderpoel said that one of the first questions that would arise would be whether the church was to be rebuilt on the old site. He knew that many would be in favor of removing further up town. He doubted whether the congregation could honorably remove. On examining the deed of the land, he found that on the first of April, 1846, Peter G. Stuyvesant and wife, for the sum of ten dollars, granted to the wardens and vestry of St. George's, the land on which the church was erected, in full confidence that they would erect and forever maintain a church there. The speaker was not prepared to say that the congregation had not a legal right to move, but he did not believe they had a moral right to do so.

On motion of Mr. Crane it was resolved, as the sense of the meeting, that the church be rebuilt on its present location.

Dr. Tyng said that no action the meeting could have taken would have so fully met his wishes as a resolution to rebuild on the old site.

Remarks were made by several gentlemen as to the proposed expense, when it was resolved to restore the church to its former condition, with as little expense over $120,000, exclusive of organ and clock, as possible.

It is understood that the organ and clock will cost about $30,000.

Several efforts were made to adjourn the meeting without taking up a subscription, all of which failed. A subscription list was finally started, and in less than an hour the sum of $52,000 had been subscribed. This, with the insurance of $80,000, will be nearly sufficient to rebuild the church.

A committee of seven, consisting of P. R. Pyne, J. P. Morgan, Chas. J. Eaton, Francis M. Babcock, Theodore Crane, W. A. Smith, and W. H. Nelson was appointed to collect further subscriptions.

The meeting then adjourned. The vestry will hold a meeting on Thursday evening.

THE POLICE COURTS.

The Tombs—Before Justice Dowling.

ALLEGED BURGLARY AND RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS.

On Sunday morning, the boot and shoe store of Justus Hoerle, No. 1 Cortlandt-street, was entered by burglars, at about 6 o'clock, who wrenched off the padlock and forced the bolts and inner lock with a jimmy, and robbed it of between three and four hundred dollars' worth of boots and shoes. A boy, who was returning from the paper office with his papers, saw three young men in the act of forcing open the door, but was afraid to give any alarm. Shortly after, another boy, employed in the barber's shop under the Merchants' Hotel, in Cortland-street, saw three young men as he was taking down the shutters of the shop pass by with boots and shoes in their hands. Capt. Helme, who shortly after visited the premises to ascertain the extent of the robbery and learn by what means the burglars had effected an entrance, learned the above facts from these boys, and also got a description of the dress and general appearance of the three young men, and set to work at once to find them out. He put an officer on the case to work it up, and also directed his officers to drive all the suspicious characters off who might be hanging around their several posts, and in case they did not leave, to arrest and bring them to the station-house. At about 7:30 o'clock on Sunday evening, Officer John Maloy found a number of these characters congregated on his post in Greenwich-street, and ordered them away; two of them refused, and the officer found it necessary to use his club in arresting them, and brought them to the station-house, and the Captain at once recognized them from the description he had received as two of the parties who had been concerned in the robbery. They were detained over night on the officer's charge of disorderly conduct, and in the morning the boys before alluded to were sent for, and recognized them at once as two of the three men whom they had seen with the boots in the morning. They were taken to court and committed by Justice Dowling, and sent back to the station-house to give the officers an opportunity more fully to work up the case. The Captain having learned that three young men answering their description had been seen on Sunday afternoon to enter the second-hand boot and shoe store of Samuel Rosenberg, No. 121 Baxter-street, with some boots and shoes in their possession, and to leave without them, sent Officer Walkenshaw to examine the premises for the stolen property. He succeeded in recovering a part of it, and arrested Rosenberg as a receiver of stolen goods. On being brought to the station-house he recognized the two young men as two of the parties who had sold the shoes to him. Officer Hey arrested, during the day, the third prisoner, with a pair of the stolen shoes on his feet, and a pair of old shoes, found in the store, proved to fit him exactly. The four prisoners, Thomas Jenkins, Patrick Sweeney, Thomas Lyons and Rosenberg were taken to court and committed for trial by Justice Dowling.

STEALING A TARPAULIN.

Officer Hoffman, of the First Precinct, arrested John Jones in the act of stealing a tarpaulin valued at $150, the property of the United States Government, and used as a covering for an artillery wagon. The tarpaulin was in the charge of Seth J. Coon, stationed at the Battery Barracks. Justice Dowling committed Jones to the Tombs.

The Storm of Rain and Wind.

FRESHET ALONG THE RIVER FRONT—EFFECTS OF THE FLOOD—SCENES AND INCIDENTS.

The recent storm of rain and wind which prevailed during the whole of yesterday, and the night previous, occasioned considerable inconvenience, although no very great damage was the result, beyond the flood of water along the river fronts.

In the early part of the morning the rain fell in torrents, deluging the streets and flooding the gutters. Very few ventured abroad, who were not compelled to do so, and the cars and omnibusses were liberally patronized by those moving about the city. The sudden gusts of wind wrenched away swinging signs, ripped up awnings and demolished shaky chimney pots. The rain fell at times in sheets, and the pavements were covered by water. To the doleful music of creaking signs, flapping awnings, and clattering bricks from some demolished chimney, the storm of rain continued.

By noon the storm had spent its fury, leaving the streets well washed, but down-town the flood did not abate, for the wind being in the same quarter as the incoming tide caused a sudden rise in the rivers. The whole front of the city from South Ferry up as far as Fulton-street on either side was flooded. The ferries suffered the most, for their bridges were raised so high that heavily laden carts could with difficulty get on or off the ferry boats. This was especially the case with the Hamilton and Atlantic ferries, as they connect with the large docks in Brooklyn, and constantly carry the drays which transport merchandize to and fro.

The water was so high along South-street that all the cellars along that front and in State-street were flooded, in some instances to the depth of two or three feet. The fish market at Fulton-slip was also flooded, so much so that business was suspended.

The longshoremen, for the nonce, found their occupation gone, as the flood was too great for the proper transaction of business. They, however, found considerable amusement in hunting the armies of rats which infest the wharves and warehouses along South-street, killing large numbers of them.

The lull in the wind brought relief to those suffering from the flood, and as the rain slackened the streets became again alive with pedestrians, although umbrellas were the vogue during the entire day.

One of the greatest disappointments occasioned by the rain, was the countermanding of the order to give Gen. Grant a public and proper escort on his departure yesterday. If the weather had proved clear and pleasant no doubt can exist that the people of New-York would have given the Lieutenant-General one of the grandest ovations he has received.

We learn that in consequence of the storm the departure of the steamship Creole will be postponed to Thursday the 23d inst., at 3 o'clock P. M.

The Custom-house Frauds.

ANOTHER ADJOURNMENT.

William Chase Barney, a Custom-house clerk, and Benthan Fabiam, a clerk in the Treasury Department, were taken before Justice Dowling, on the 6th inst., and required to answer for an alleged forgery of bonds to the amount of $40,000. Eminent counsel, namely: Messrs. James T. Brady, John Sedgwick, Edwin James, R. D. Holmes and T. Dunphy, were engaged, and the defence moved off by denying the court's jurisdiction, and claiming that inasmuch as the offence, if any, had been committed against the United States Custom-house, the prisoners ought to be heard before a United States judicial officer. It became manifest at once that the court had a tedious trial in prospect, and hence an order of adjournment was entered, to enable the lawyers to make full preparation. The accused, meantime, were committed to the Tombs. At a subsequent hearing it transpired that Richard Chauncey also had been accused of complicity with Barney and Fabian in the alleged forgeries, and another adjournment was ordered, to enable counsel to amend the papers by inserting his name therein. The case was set down for 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and it was understood that then the counsel would argue the question of jurisdiction, but when Justice Dowling took the bench a messenger delivered a note from Mr. John Sedgwick asking an adjournment, because of his being engaged in the Superior Court; and everybody consenting, His Honor named Tuesday afternoon next, at 2 o'clock, as the time when he would listen to such arguments as counsel might offer. Fabian and Chauncey were thereupon remanded to the Tombs. Barney has given $5,000 bail.

Coroners' Inquests.

FATAL AFFRAY BETWEEN CHINAMEN.

Yesterday an inquest was held, at the Fourth Precinct Station-house, on the body of John Avvee, a Chinaman, who died of the wounds inflicted upon him by a knife in the hands of a fellow countryman named Abbot, as previously reported. In the quarrel which arose between the men, it appears that the deceased wished to fight, but Abbot refused to settle their difficulty in this manner, sitting down in a chair. Shortly after this Avvee, the deceased, approached Abbot from behind, pulling him from his seat, kicking and striking him. Abbot then seized a large knife, which he found in the room, and stabbed Avvee three or four times about the chest, side and abdomen. Avvee was removed to the City Hospital, but died before reaching it. Officer Allen, of the Fourth Precinct, arrested Abbot and locked him up.

The jury found "that John Avvee came to his death by hemorrhage from a stab-wound at the hands of John Abbott, on the 20th day of November, 1865, at No. 381 Pearl-street." On this verdict, Abbott being arraigned and examined, stated that he was a seaman, 44 years old, born in China, his place of residence being No. 57 Cherry-street. He further stated, that he had loaned money to deceased, who refused to pay him; that the deceased attacked him twice, and that he only used the knife in self-defence. The prisoner was committed by Coroner Wildey to the Tombs, to await his trial. Avvee was 22 years of age, and also born in China.

FATAL ROW IN FIRST-AVENUE.

On Sunday evening last, about 8 o'clock, James M. Nally, residing at No. 730 Second-avenue, and James Farley, quarreled on the sidewalk opposite No. 565 First-avenue. Farley seized a stone and aimed a fearful blow at Nally, striking him in the abdomen, and felling him. Nally, on being brought home, grew gradually worse, till yesterday morning, when he died. Farley, who is but 19 years old, was arrested yesterday morning, and locked up. In the afternoon an inquest was held on the body of the deceased Nally by Coroner Collin, at the Twenty-first Precinct Station-house, and a verdict was rendered by the jury against Farley, who was taken to the Tombs to await the action of the Grand Jury. The prisoner states that the assault was first made on him, and that in what he did he did it only in self-defence. Farley resided at No. 201 East Thirty-fourth-street, and worked in a silk-factory. Deceased was 26 years of age, and a native of Ireland.

DEATH BY A FALL FROM A WAGON.

Coroner Collin held an inquest on the body of John Enrich, who was killed by a fall from his wagon and by the passing over his body of the wheels, lacerating his person in a terrible manner. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death. Deceased had but recently returned from the war, where he had served in the Sixteenth New-York Cavalry over three years. He leaves a widow and four children.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

Fire at Fort Washington.—We have learned that the owner of the building burned on old King's Bridge road, Fort Washington, on last Saturday, is Mrs. Elizabeth Langdon. Mrs. Langdon was last on the premises up to about 3:30 o'clock on the afternoon of the day, making preparations for the carpenters and painters, the house requiring certain repairs. On leaving, she secured the doors as usual, bringing the keys away with her. The facts, as ascertained through Fire-Marshal Baker, are that Mr. Tellpie, who lives in the adjoining house, on going to his bedroom, discovered smoke therein, and on looking out of his window, saw flames issuing from the roof of his neighbor's house, on the south side. The police, under Capt. Wilson, were at hand almost instantly, and finding the front door securely fastened, broke it open, but found the fire to have extended so rapidly as to preclude all access to the second floor, or to save any of the furniture. Mrs. Langdon estimates the value of the house at $10,000; insured in the Park and New-Amsterdam offices for $6,000. Her furniture she values at $2,500, and on this property she has an insurance of $3,000 in the Lenox Insurance Company. There is no other theory for the fire save as the work of an incendiary. Mrs. Langdon had noticed when there last, a window of the laundry to have been pushed up, as if some person had entered or passed out thereby, but attached no great importance to this fact at the time. She also states that she caused a fire to be made in the grate of the dining-room, as the house was damp; but that it was quite low when she left it, and she cannot think it possible that the fire could have its origin in this.

Fire in West Thirty-fifth-street.—Monday evening between 5 and 6 o'clock, a disastrous fire occurred in the four-story brick house, No. 147 West Thirty-fifth-street, occupied on the two upper floors by Mrs. Morrill, as a trunk manufactory, and on the first and second by S. T. Montine, a manufacturer of chairs. The fire first showed itself from the windows of the second floor, and spread with such rapidity that the whole building was in flames in less than twenty minutes. The entire structure was destroyed, with the stock contained therein. Mrs. Morrill's loss is estimated at about $1,000, insured for that amount, but the name of the company could not be ascertained. Mr. Montine's loss is said to be about the same amount, for which he is also covered by insurance. The building was worth about $8,000, said to be insured also. We learn from the Fire Marshal that the fire owes its origin to the carelessness of a boy named Walsh, who let fall a lighted candle into a can of varnish.

Another Grand Game—Atlantics vs. Picked Nine.—On Thursday (to-morrow) a grand game of base ball will be played on the Capitoline Grounds, Brooklyn, the contestants being the champion Atlantics on one side, and the following picked nine on the other: McMahon and Zeller, of the Mutual; Walker and "Redman," of the Active; Calloway and Bomeister, of the Eureka; Brainard, of the Excelsior; Hatfield, of the Keystone, and C. Mills, of the Eckford Clubs. The substitutes are Ferguson, Hannegan and Manley. Game will be called at 1:30 o'clock precisely, and will probably draw together one of the largest crowds of the season, as it will be positively the last appearance of the Atlantics this year.

Fatal Stabbing Affray.—Between 5 and 6 o'clock Monday evening an affray occurred between two Chinamen named respectively John Appa and John Anville, in which the latter was stabbed by a knife in the hands of Appa. Anville was taken from the scene of the attack, No. 381 Pearl-street, to the City Hospital, but died on the way there. The quarrel originated in a dispute about some money, resulting in the stabbing in many parts of the body of the unfortunate man. Appa was at once arrested by an officer of the Fourth Precinct, whose name we have not learned.

New-York Young Mens' Christian Association.—The second lecture in the course before this association will be delivered at the Room, No. 161 Fifth-avenue, this evening, by Rev. D. Stuart Dodge. Subject—"Traveling in Syria."

Meeting at the Church of the Puritans.—A public meeting is advertised for Thursday evening in the Church of the Puritans, in behalf of justice to the rebels and our colored citizens in the coming Congress. Eminent speakers are announced.

Williamsburgh.

Burglary and Arrests.—Mr. Enos I. Baker, residing at the corner of Fifth-steeet and Fillmore-place, E. D., was startled about 1 o'clock Monday morning by a noise proceeding from his stable. On looking out the window he saw a man leaving the stable with a buffalo robe under his arm. He immediately gave information to the police of the Forty-fifth Precinct, and Sergeant Hunt made an examination of the premises, and found that a set of harness, a buffalo robe and a catskin robe had been stolen. Satisfied that the burglary had been committed by persons in the neighborhood, the Sergeant placed a watch there and made inquiries of the neighbors. A lady living at No. 19 Gillmore-place, gave the information that one of the men living up-stairs in her house had brought in something like harness shortly after the commission of the burglary. On this information a search-warrant was obtained, and the place was visited about 8 o'clock by Sergeant Hunt and Officers Nicholson and Murphy, who found all the stolen property secreted there. The apartments were occupied by a widow and her seven sons. Three of the latter were taken into custody and locked up. Their names are Andrew Hubbs, aged 19; Charles Hubbs, aged 22, and George Hubbs, aged 29. These men say they are employed at Fulton Market, New-York. While the officers were in search of the other brothers, two of them visited their home, and finding that the police had been there, immediately fled in the direction of Greenpoint, and are still at large.

The Case of Lewis vs. Nathans.—About three months ago a returned soldier, named Theodore Lewis, preferred a complaint before Justice Dailey against Adam Nathans, the bounty broker, whose name has been so frequently before the public in connection with the late Second District Provost-Marshal's office. The complainant charged Nathans with swindling him out of a portion of his bounty money on the 29th of September, 1864. Monday the case was called up and decided. G. N. Reidenbecker, a bounty broker, testified that Lewis agreed to take $350 for his bounty, and received that amount. There being no proof to the contrary, the Justice dismissed the complaint.

Capture of an Alleged Burglar.—John Moore, a young man 17 years of age, suspected of being engaged in the burglary of Johnson's shoe-store, No. 73 Grand-street, E. D., on Thursday night last, was yesterday arrested in Jersey City, by Officer Nugent, while engaged in selling the proceeds of the burglary. Twenty-four pairs of shoe-uppers were found in his possession. He was handed over to the police of the Forty-fifth Precinct and locked up.

Died from Injuries.—A man named Mathias Smith, 65 years of age, died at 8 o'clock Monday morning at No. 215 North Sixth-st., E. D., from the effects of injuries received at a slight fire at his residence a few hours previously. It seems that he ran down to the sidewalk when the fire broke out, and the tenants in the upper story threw out some bedding, which struck him on the head.

Conflict of Jurisdiction.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Clerke.

In re the Petition of John J. Carey.—This case brought up the very interesting question of how far one court may interfere with the jurisdiction of another in matters of contempt. The petitioner had purchased the mortgaged premises in a foreclosure suit in the Common Pleas, bidding at the referee's sale $15,600, and depositing, in accordance with the terms of sale, ten per cent., viz., $1,560. Subsequently he objected to completing the sale on various alleged defects of title, but his objections were overruled, and from the order overruling them the petitioner appealed. An order was then procured by the plaintiff in the former suit, on the ground, among others, of collusion between Carey and the defendants, that he pay the balance of his purchase, $14,040, with interest from the 25th of September, to the referee. This was afterward modified so far as to allow him to pay the money into court. Failing to comply with either of these orders, the Court of Common Pleas issued an attachment, and, after the usual proceedings by interrogatory, the petitioner, Carey, was committed to close confinement until he should comply with the orders, and pay $30 as costs. Carey then procured from the Supreme Court a habeas corpus, to which the Sheriff made return that he held the relator by virtue of the commitment of the Court of Common Pleas, which he annexed. The relator then asked that a writ of certiorari be issued to the Court of Common Pleas to compel a return from that court of all their proceedings on which the commitment for contempt was based.

The counsel for the respondents objected to the granting of this writ—that the Court of Common Pleas was within its own limits a court of coördinate, not inferior jurisdiction to the Supreme Court, and therefore common law certiorari would apply to it. That the statutory certiorari was but an alternative writ where the habeas corpus should not for peculiar reasons be used, and even that only ran to inferior courts.

The Court, after some discussion, gave its opinion that the writ of certiorari could not issue to a coördinate court, and that though there were cases where the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court was superior to that of the other courts, in this case the Common Pleas was of coördinate jurisdiction, and a certiorari would not run. At request of counsel for the petitioner it, however, reserved its decision for further consideration.

The counsel for the relator then demurred to the return of the Sheriff for various matters in the commitment which were alleged to be irregular, and discussed them at some length. The respondent's counsel replied, denying the irregularities to be such, and urging that supposing them to exist the proceeding could not be reviewed by a single Judge of another court, but only by a regular appeal to the General Term of the same court. After considerable discussion the court took the papers, reserving its decision.

Legal Courtesies.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Clerke.

Mr. Whittaker, jr., and Mr. McGregor, having a private discussion in the chambers of the Supreme Court, relative to the merits of their respective cases, passed from discussion to high words, and from these to violence, resulting in a blow in the face to Mr. Whittaker, not, however, in the immediate presence of the Court. The latter gentleman, with the marks of the contest still fresh upon him, appealed to the Court for an immediate order committing his opponent for contempt. The Court directed him to prepare the proper papers on which to procure such an order.

Powers of the City Judge of Brooklyn.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Justice Moncrief.

George Davis vs. John Kelly et ors.—This suit was brought against the former Sheriff for false imprisonment, consisting of three distinct arrests, for which he claimed $9,000 damages, and for an alleged taking of a stock of liquors, valued by the plaintiff at over $800. The defendants justified the arrest under an execution issued by the City Judge of Brooklyn, and denied wholly the conversion of the stock of liquors. They further claimed that the two causes of action were improperly joined.

The counsel for the plaintiff argued that though the powers of a Supreme Court Judge at Chambers had been conferred on the City Judge, this did not authorize him to issue process to any county except Kings County, the court being like the Superior Courts of this city and Buffalo, of local jurisdiction. After some argument the objection was overruled.

Hancke & Lapaugh for plaintiff; Brown, Hall & Vanderpoel for defendants.

United States Circuit Court—Eastern District.

Before Judge Benedict.

The United States vs. David Smith.—This was a motion in arrest of judgment—The defendant was convicted of passing a counterfeit $50 treasury note. The facts of the case as shown by the testimony were that the defendant who lived in New-York, received the bill from a keeper of a grocery, who told him at the time, that it was a counterfeit; a woman who lived with Smith having asked him for money he told her to go to his trunk and she would find some, and she did find this $50 bill, which she took. The defendant and this woman afterward having come over to Brooklyn to a picnic, she passed the bill supposing it was a good one.

On these facts, the prisoner's counsel, Mr. Hughes, moved for an arrest of judgment after conviction, on the ground that there was no proof of the prisoner's having passed the bill in the limits of the Eastern District.

The court took this view of the case and granted the motion, and the prisoner was discharged.

Important to Dealers in India-Rubber Combs.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

Before Judge Shipman.

H. B. Goodyear and C. Poppenhusen vs. Robert Haering.—Robert Haering was brought before the court this morning for a contempt by violating the injunction of the court forbidding him to manufacture india-rubber combs in violation of the Goodyear patent. The case was originally referred to the master of the court, who reported him in contempt. Judge Nelson affirmed the report and issued a warrant for his arrest. Judge Shipman said that as the proofs were not clear as to the extent of the contempt, he would be lenient, and only sentence him to twenty days' imprisonment and a fine of $50.

C. M. Keller appeared for the complainants, and W. C. Traphagen for the defendant.

More Counterfeiters.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT.

Before Judge Shipman.

The United States vs. George M. Drew.—This man was indicted for having in his possession counterfeit fifty cent notes, with intent to pass the same. The proof showed that the accused went into the fancy-store of Mr. McElhiney, in Greenwich-street, and bought a pair of wristlets, for which he offered a fifty cent note, which proved to be bad. Mr. McElhiney told him it was bad, and asked him if he had no good money. Thereupon another man came into the store and said he was a detective policeman, and had been watching Drew, and arrested him for passing counterfeit money. As he was taking him out, Drew threw behind the counter a package of seven counterfeit fifty cent notes, which the alleged detective picked up and gave to Mr. McElhiney. Then they went off together, and entered a liquor-store. Mr. McElhiney's suspicions being excited, he followed them, and getting a policeman, went in and arrested Drew in the liquor-store, the alleged detective not being there. On Drew's person were found three other counterfeits and no good money.

Drew told the officer he had bought the stamps, having been on a drunk the night before, and had passed two on a German.

Drew offered no defence except that he proved previous good character, and the jury found him guilty.

For the United States, Mr. Courtney and Mr. Bell; for defence, Mr. Cohen.

The United States vs. Daniel Mullins.—This was a case of a similar offence. The proof was that the accused went into a lager bier saloon in William-street and bought a glass of lager, for which he offered a fifty cent stamp. The barkeeper pronounced it bad and handed it back, and Mullens pulled out a large bundle of similar ones, whereupon the bartender said he was passing counterfeit money, and put him in charge of two men while he went after a policeman. The policeman on searching him found ten other counterfeits and $5 50 in good money, but all in five, ten and twenty-five cent stamps, showing that he had been passing the counterfeit currency and getting change.

Mullens gave no defence but proved good character, and the jury also convicted him.

For the United States Mr. Courtney and Mr. Bell; for Mullins, Judge Stewart.

Bounty Case.

MARINE COURT.

Before Judge Dittenhoefer.

Joseph Jansen vs. Eric P. Lindahl.—This was a claim for $410, the balance of bounty which the plaintiff alleged had been promised him on enlistment. The defence alleged that but $200 had been promised, and that this had been made plain by the enlisting Provost-Marshal to the plaintiff by signs, though defendant had been interpreter, and had stated the same facts; that this amount had been paid, (the plaintiff admitted $190,) and that Lindahl had not personally promised anything. The Court submitted the case as a question of credibility of witnesses, and the jury gave a verdict for defendant.

Court of General Sessions.

Before Judge Russel.

PICKING POCKETS.

Margaret Butler was placed on trial for stealing $40 from Edwin Binney. The circumstances were, that on the night of the 12th of November the complainant met the accused in a saloon, and after getting pretty drunk went out with her. An officer found them engaged in a dispute, the prisoner claiming to be Binney's wife, and trying to get him to go home; but he told the officer that she had taken his money. The arrest was made, and $25 found in her possession, in bills of the same bank as those the complainant had. Guilty of petit larceny; Penitentiary six months.

CARRIED AWAY GOODS.

Harry Smith was tried for stealing a bale of goods valued at $100, the property of S. B. Chittenden & Co. The goods had been marked for shipment to Connecticut, and were on the sidewalk. The prisoner was arrested on a stoop in Leonard-street, the bale of goods lying near him. The jury disagreed as to a verdict, and were finally discharged.

PLEADED GUILTY.

John Foley, of an attempt at grand larceny, in having stolen $500 worth of screws belonging to Charles Grook. Remanded.

Court of Special Sessions.

Before Justices Kelly and Dowling.

RATHER SUSPICIOUS.

Thomas Lynch, aged eighteen years, was charged with carrying burglar's tools with felonious intent, to commit a robbery. All that was found in his possession at the time of his arrest was a burglar's pick-lock, about seven inches long. The officer discovered it accidentally protruding about three inches out of his vest pocket, and for carrying this after dusk he was tried for a misdemeanor. He said he found it, and not knowing its character, he put it in his pocket. This might have been the case, if other evidence had not been brought forward to destroy this theory of innocence. Henry Back, policeman of the Twenty-first Precinct, said he was met by a woman who keeps a store in Forty-first-street, who told him that a young man had just brought a tub of prime butter that he wished to sell to her at 40 cents a pound. She refused to buy it. Afterward the officer learned that a tub of butter corresponding to the one that had been offered for sale had been stolen from Forty-second-street. The officer on meeting the prisoner arrested him on suspicion, and he was identified as the youth who had attempted to sell the butter, but the tub could not be found; he knew where he had disposed of it, but it was not his business to tell; he was searched, as is usual in all cases, and this pick-lock was found on him. But for these circumstances, he would not have been convicted. Penitentiary three months.

"HOW INNOCENT I BE."

The charge against the accused in this case, William Phillips, is a warning to momentary philanthropists. His offence was stealing an overcoat worth $18—the property of John Aiken. Complainant and prisoner, waiting for an up-town car at the depot at Fiftieth-street and Eighth-avenue, made sudden friendship, which resulted in Mr. Aiken asking the prisoner to join him in a drink. After the drink they entered the cars and took a stand on the back platform, where Mr. Aiken threw his coat over the dash. Prisoner kept edging backward and forward until the coat fell off on the track, when, knowing it was off, he jumped off, walked back, picked up the coat, and that was the last seen of him or the coat by the complainant. The coat was recovered in a second-hand store, and he was identified as having sold it. He was asked why he came to steal the coat of the man that liquored him.

Prisoner—Lor bless you, you don't know how innocent I be. When the coat fell off the dash I went off the car and got it, and then I ran after the car as hard as I could, but I couldnt no ways get up to it, and as the coat was of no use to me I sold it.

This momentary dash of philanthropy cost the accused one month in the Penitentiary.

GIFT ENTERPRISES—HOW THEY FLOURISH.

A slight insight was given into the management of what is called "gift enterprises," that is, those cheap jewelry establishments, in which men are to be seen from sunrise until long after sunset standing at the doors forcing upon passers by the bills of the house. The defendant in this case, James Smith, is associated with one Norton, and licensed to carry on a "gift enterprise" at No. 94 Chatham-street. The complainant, John H. Goenawen, entered the place, was induced to part with $67, under certain promises, and all that he drew was a silver-plated bread-basket and some trinkets that amounted in value to about $18. When case was called counsel moved to dismiss it, on the ground that it did not come under the lottery law, or the law against gaming, such as throwing dice. There was nobody playing against him. There were $100 in gold and a $100 greenback, and seven envelopes were shown him, and he was assured one of these contained this prize. Nobody played against him—there is the point; he had all the play himself, and of course played to win, and logically should have won, but like the three cards, or the little joker, it is all settled beforehand who shall win. Complainant was the only player in the game. He drew from a "lot," as the complaint set forth; not a lottery, there was no law to reach it. Assistant District-Attorney Hutchings asked time to examine the papers before the court decided on the motion, as the case was rather unusual. On motion the case was continued.

THE ASSAULT AT CENTRAL PARK.

Wm. H. Webb and Dennis Cavanagh, convicted at the last session, were brought up on remand. There being another charge against Cavanagh, he pleaded not guilty to assaulting Thomas Armstrong. Complainant said after his friend Mr. Grave was assaulted, he walked out of the Park House, Eighty-fourth-street and Eighth-avenue, when the prisoner Cavanagh came up from behind and knocked him down. The defence made matters worse by going into a defence. They threw out insinuations to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong were not man and wife; that they were so and so and were tipsy, and brought on the fight themselves. They made the assertion without adducing the proof, and but for this base attempt to injure character their case might have been disposed of with a fine. It is usual in this court, when an attempt is made to bolster up a case by insinuations against the accuser as to his or her character, if no proof is brought forward to sustain the slander, the prisoner, when found guilty, is severely dealt with, as was done in the case of Webb and Cavanagh, who were both sent to the Penitentiary and fined besides $50 each.

A CURIOUS DEFENCE.

James Delany was charged with assaulting Christian Miller, a plain looking woman, the proprietoress of a "pretty waiter saloon," in Chatham-street. Complainant said: On Thursday, between one and two in the morning, me and a young lady and my husband, who was three yards behind me, lighting his pipe, were passing No. 12 Bowery, and two young men were standing, and this one took a hold of me, and I asked him what he wanted, and he said "Get out you old Moll." My husband came up and asked him what he wanted, when he struck him and knocked him down in the gutter, and I tried to save him and he struck me there on the wrist with a knife. The witness, on her cross-examination, could not tell whether the woman with her was of good or bad repute. When asked if her husband carried the "stick," she asked three times "Sir," and then gave no answer. Counsel for the defence, Mr. Howe, said this was one of those cases arising from the social evil. The prisoner saw this lady and another nymph du pavé, and supposing their character, he spoke to them, when up came the supposed husband—who was what is termed a "bludgeoner"—whose duty it was to come up from behind and pick a quarrel, and in the confusion the victim was robbed by the man or the woman. In this case the prisoner, understanding the character of the parties with whom he had to deal, struck the first blow. The court said even if all that had been said were true, he was none the less guilty of the assault. He was sent to the Penitentiary for two months and fined $25.

A SHORT HONEYMOON.

Otto Smith, a German, was charged with stealing a tub of butter from No. 141 Washington Market. Henry D. Wehman could only testify to the loss of the butter, which was worth $19 60, at 40 cents a pound, cost price. Policeman O'Connor caught him, at 5 o'clock in the morning, carrying it off. Prisoner's wife, a very pretty, interesting young German, came up to intercede for her husband. She said she and the prisoner labored on a farm on Long Island; that she had known her husband about five months, and had been married to hm two months; why her husband came to be caught stealing at such an early hour as at 5 o'clock in the morning, miles away from home, she could not tell. He was found guilty, and sent to the penitentiary for two months.

MINOR ITEMS.

William Burns, aged 14, was caught robbing the till of store No. 817 Sixth-avenue, and sent to the House of Refuge.... Frank Wagner, in the employ of John P. Grubber, was charged with stealing the bottom of an air-pump. Complainant could not tell when his property was stolen, and said he had never missed it. Complaint dismissed.... James Hussen, who said he had twenty-five witnesses to prove an alibi, was found guilty of committing a very cowardly assault on Mrs. Mena Eberly, of Thirty-third-street. He struck her on the head with a wooden mallet. To teach the twenty-five absent witnesses that rowdyism would not be tolerated, he was sent to the Penitentiary for three months and fined $50. .... Renssaeler Buckbee, a special officer at the Old Bowery Theatre, said he had given some offence to John Waltz, who was one of the "deadheads" of that house, and going home one night lately he was very badly beaten by Waltz. The "deadhead," who bore a very good character, was found guilty and discharged with a reprimand.... James Haws, aged 20, just down from the Island, after having served six months for a violent assault on Kate Tilton, a woman of the town, was found guilty of again assaulting her, but this time not so severely. Fined $25. Charles Meyer was found guilty of assaulting his wife Mary, who said that she had been beaten for the last fifteen years by her husband. A Madame Flamber was examined for the defence, who said she had only seen pushing about, when complainant said that was the woman her husband wanted to marry. It was proven that defendant not only beat his wife, but had deserted her and left her to work for and support four children. Guilty—Penitentiary three months.

Tuesday, Nov. 21—P. M.

The price of Gold is dull at 146⅝, about the same as yesterday. The rate of Exchange on London closed for the Boston mail this afternoon at 108⅝@109 ₩ cent., the sales mostly at 108⅝ ₩ cent. for first-class bills. The Exports of Cotton for the week are 10,645 bales, and the value in Currency of all Domestic Exports, $5,022,750. The direct Exports of Cotton from Mobile and New-Orleans to Europe, continue to contribute a large amount of Foreign Exchange to this market. But few bills are making against United States 5-20's or other American Stocks this week; the London quotations scarcely justifying either orders or speculative purchases. These quotations, however, are no lower by the China this forenoon.

The Government Stocks were a fraction lower, and rather pressed on sale by one or two Brokers at the early Board of the Stock Exchange to-day, but recovered to about Monday's quotations later in the day, when it was found that Money-lenders were accepting 6 ₩ cent., at call, on Government collateral. The supply at 7 ₩ cent. on Miscellaneous collateral was in excess of the demand from the Brokers. The rain-storm created a general dullness of business, including the Custom-House and Sub-Treasury Office. The Railway speculation at the Stock Exchange participated in this dullness early in the day, but was quite active again in the afternoon, influenced by a fresh upward turn in Northwest Common Shares, which advanced to 38⅛ ₩ cent., or ½ ₩ cent. above the best sales of Monday, before the reaction to 36@35⅞ ₩ cent. The parties engaged in the movement are understood to be going on the calculation that the large earnings of the Road justify at least 50 ₩ cent. of the par value of the $13,000,000 Common Stock. The amount of Preferred Stock is about the same, and the Mortgages $12,000,000 outstanding. The concern now embraces, of their own and the leased lines, about 930 miles of road in operation. The present movement in the Common Stock was inaugurated a week or ten days ago, at 30@31 ₩ cent. The Preferred is selling at 66⅛ ₩ cent. The Bonds, 75@90, according to preference of mortgage. Erie shares fell off to 91⅛ at the First Board, but subsequently recovered to 92 ₩ cent. Michigan Southern, Pittsburgh and Rock Island, also stiffened up in the afternoon. The Miscellaneous shares, with the exception of Mariposa, were about as on Monday.

At 4 o'clock the following quotations were made as compared with yesterday afternoon. The Railway list continued active on certain of the Western Stocks, and otherwise tame. Largest business at the Open Board on Northwest Common and Preferred and Pittsburgh. Gold, 146⅝ at the close.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

FROM EUROPE.

By the steamship China, which arrived at Halifax last evening, we receive intelligence that the British Government have ordered the unconditional release of Capt. Waddell and the crew of the rebel pirate Shenandoah, on the ground that there was no legal evidence on which they could be held. In a letter to Earl Russell, Capt. Waddell endeavors to justify his piratical proceedings by asserting that he could place no reliance on the stories told by American sea Captains, and that as soon as he received information through a British source of the conclusion of the war, he desisted from further acts of warfare, and immediately headed for a neutral port, where the rumors, which he considered doubtful, would be verified. On the 10th inst. the Shenandoah was surrendered to the American Consul at Liverpool, who placed her under the care of a Captain and crew of his own selection, to be sent to this port.

Further correspondence between Mr. Adams and Earl Russell is published in England. It relates to the departure of rebel cruisers from England. The London papers were still discussing the Alabama claims. It seems to be the general opinion in England that while the United States will yield nothing, they will not press the claims so far as to endanger the peace of the two nations. The commission for the trial of the Fenians is to open at Dublin on the 27th inst. The passport system on the Austrian frontier is said to have been abolished.

The steamship Moravian, Capt. Acton, from Liverpool 9th, via Queenstown 10th, arrived at this port yesterday morning, is the first ship of Messrs. Williams & Guion's new line.

GENERAL NEWS.

The new frigate Resaca was launched at the Portsmouth Navy-yard on the 18th inst. The christening ceremonies were performed by the Misses Collins, nieces of Rear-Admiral Bailey. The Resaca will receive her machinery at the Washington yard. She will be commanded by Lieut.-Commander Jos. M. Bradford, late Fleet-Captain of Admiral Dahlgren's squadron. Her armament will consist of one 60-pound rifle pivot-gun, six 32-pound broadsides, and three 20-pound bronze rifles. At the conclusion of the launch the guests were hospitably entertained by Admiral Bailey and his lady, also by Capt. Pickering, the Executive Officer, Paymaster Emery, Commander Harrison, and other officers, at their several quarters. The interesting occasion concluded with an inspection of the yard and its many objects of interest.

The Montreal Gazette of the 20th says: "A dispatch was received in town yesterday from a malicious fabricator of canards, stating that an armed company, supposed to be Fenians, had paraded the streets of Derby Line Village, in Vermont, immediately contiguous to Stanstead Plain, in Canada. We learn that this is a company of State militia, or State volunteers in the United States Army, sent by the United States Government to repress smuggling."

The Indiana Journal says Gen. Gideon J. Pillow passed through Indianapolis a few days since, on his way to the Wabash country, to buy red corn to enable him to plant his Mississippi plantation next season. He is of medium stature, compactly built, with a keen eye, iron-gray hair and whiskers. He is exceedingly affable, and expresses a desire to let the past rast and live for the future.

James L. Filkins, indicted for the murder of George W. Loomis, has been admitted to bail in that indictment by the court now in session at Utica, N. Y., Justice Bacon presiding, in the sum of $10,000, and on the other indictments has been discharged on his own recognizance. A special term for his trial will be held.

The Torontonians are banquet-bitten. They are arranging for a grand feed as soon as possible, at which they expect the leading commercial men of the United States to be present, and talk over the reciprocity, ship canals, and kindred schemes for mutual benefit.

The Missouri Legislature has decided that Messrs. Jameson and Barlow, members from St. Louis, have not forfeited their right to their seats by holding the lucrative offices of Police Commissioner and Superintendent of Waterworks.

Hon. Wm. H. Boyce, who represented a South Carolina district in Congress for nearly eight years, and resigned to go into the rebellion most reluctantly, is about to commence the practice of his profession of the law in Washington.

In a match game of billiards, in Washington, on Saturday evening, between Deery and Foster, Deery put on record a run of 420—the largest ever made.

Major-Gen. Palmer, Military Commander at Louisville, Ky., has been indicted for enticing slaves to leave that State. One can hardly imagine that any enticement would be required in such cases.

Senator Sherman, of Ohio, accompanied by a number of prominent revenue officers and leading commercial men of New-York, is on a visit to the Pennsylvania coal fields.

William Prout, Lawrence Prout and Thomas Morrisy, implicated in the recent robbery of one of the American Express Company's wagons, at Chicago, have been arraigned and held for trial.

The street railroads of Chicago are about to be connected by the completion of the track over the State-street bridge. Easy communication between all parts of the city will then be secured.

Returns from the Colorado election show that the entire Union ticket has been chosen.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Tammany City Convention held an adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon at Tammany Hall. The result of the session was the nomination of Recorder John T. Hoffman for Mayor, and Richard O'Gorman for Corporation Counsel. Both nominations were made by acclamation, scarcely any opposition being offered. Both gentlemen have accepted the nominations.

The Mozart Hall Democracy last evening nominated Mr. John Hecker for Mayor, and Mr. Richard O'Gorman for Corporation Counsel. The nomination for Mayor was first tendered to Mr. Fernando Wood, who declined the honor.

In consequence of the wretched weather prevailing all of yesterday, there was no formal parade on the occasion of Gen. Grant's departure for Washington. The order for the parade of escorts was countermanded at an early hour, by request of the General. During the day Gen. Grant visited the studio of Mr. H. Balling, and saw the picture called the "Heroes of the War," at which he expressed great pleasure. The painting represents Grant on horseback, surrounded by his lieutenants, Sherman, Sheridan, Meade, Thomas, Hooker, Kilpatrick, Burnside, Ord, Terry and others. At a later hour he called at the Post-office, the Mercantile Library and Mr. Brady's gallery. The General and suite left by the night train for Washington, taking berths in the sleeping car.

Coroner Collin held an inquest on the body of James Nally, who was killed by a blow in the abdomen from a heavy stone, thrown at him by one James Farley. They quarreled on the sidewalk opposite No. 565 First-avenue, whence Nally was taken after he fell to his home, where he died in a few hours. The prisoner claims that he was first assaulted and did the act in self-defence. He resided at No. 201 East Thirty-fourth-street and worked in a silk factory. Deceased was a native of Ireland and aged 26 years.

A very interesting ceremony took place last evening at the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment, in Fourteenth-street. The occasion was the presentation of eight medals to as many members of the regiment, (each representing a company,) by Col. Aspinwall, as rewards of merit. A large audience was present, among whom were Gens. Barlow, Sandford and Duryee, and the proceedings were full of interest.

Argument was to have been made, yesterday, in the case of the alleged Custom-house forgeries, the motion being to remove the hearing from before Justice Dowling, at the Tombs, to a United States Court. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. John Sedgwick, prosecuting officer, the hearing was adjourned to 2 o'clock, on Tuesday afternoon next.

Yesterday morning, an inquest was held on the body of the Chinaman John Avvee, who was killed, as before reported, by his countryman named Abbot. It appears from the evidence on the inquest that the deceased was the aggressor, and that Abbot used the knife in self-defence. The prisoner was committed by Coroner Wildey to the Tombs.

A very interesting meeting in aid of the Southern people, was held last night at the Brooklyn Academy, under the auspices of the three Union Commissions. Able addresses and appeals were made by A. A. Low, Rev. H. W. Beecher, Rev. Dr. Bellows and Gen. Fiske, and a letter of sympathy was read from Chief-Justice Chase.

The New-York Historical Society held its sixty-first anniversary last evening, at the hall corner of Second-avenue and Eleventh-street. Mr. De Peyster read a paper on "The Influence of Libraries upon Human Progress." Remarks were also made by Dr. Osgood and Gen. Rosecrans.

The incendiary fire yesterday, damaged Schnaderbock's Brewery, in Wykoff-street, Williamsburgh. Damage $800.

At the Live Stock Markets, this week, the supply of butchers' animals has been considerably in excess of the demand. A general depression in prices has been the consequence. Including those sold at Bergen during the closing days of last week, 6,072 head of beef cattle were offered up to last evening. A large remnant of last week's supply being still in the hands of butchers, owing to the light demand for beef of late, and the fresh supply being large, prices have declined 1c.@1½c. ℔ lb. Milch Cows and Veal Calves continue firm at last week's rates, owing to a scant supply. Sheep and Lambs have sold this week at a reduction of ½c. ℔ lb. from last week's quotations, and had the fresh receipts on Tuesday been as large as usual they would have gone still lower. Live Hogs are more abundant than at any previous time during the season. Prices have consequently fallen off 1⅛c. ℔ lb., and owners find it extremely difficult to dispose of their stock, even at this reduction.

Business in Produce and Merchandise yesterday was on a restricted scale, the severe storm having seriously impeded operations. Prices were less buoyant, and for Wheat, Corn and Pork, decidedly easier. Freights were less active.

The rain-storm yesterday made business in Wall-street dull, including the Custom-house and Sub-Treasury. Money easy at 7 ℔ cent. The Stock Exchange participated in the general dullness early in the day, but revived in the afternoon.

Progress of Reconstruction.

There has been much apprehension that, as the sense of defeat lost its freshness, the Southern disposition would grow less reasonable and compliant in the work of reconstruction. The Mississippi and Alabama Conventions, which met three or four months ago, did their business cleanly and expeditiously. They pronounced the secession ordinances to have been originally null and void, discarded all the debts which had been contracted to give effect to these ordinances, decreed the permanent abolition of slavery in the simplest and most direct terms, and imposed upon the next Legislatures the duty of enacting laws which should secure to the freedmen full protection of person and property. They did this with little prompting from Washington, and with little murmuring in any quarter. There was a general sense of what was due to the government, and a cheerful readiness to fulfill it. The later conventions have been less harmonious. In all of them there has been a faction which has been reluctant, perverse, and captious. The speeches of these men, as given in the reports of the conventions, show a great misconception of the actual situation. They all assume, more or less, that whatever the course of the Southern States, restoration will be an easy matter. These men have used the great magnanimity of the government in its amnesty and general policy of reconstruction, to give color to the pretence that, in the view of the government itself, no real crime had been committed, and that preliminaries to restoration were, after all, little else than a matter of form. This idea was strengthened by the position substantially taken by the Democratic party in all the late elections in the Northern States, that the restoration should be immediate and unconditional; and by the misrepresentation of the leaders of that party that this was what President Johnson was aiming to effect.

At one time it seemed as if faction would gain a foothold in the various Conventions that would make serious trouble. This danger particularly manifested itself in the two latest conventions—that of Florida and Georgia. Our correspondents at Tallahassee and Macon have faithfully described the various workings of this form of mischief. But the result has shown that little permanent impression was made upon either of the conventions. Both of them have adopted substantially the same ordinances as the two first States which took action. The most material point in which they have shown a difference, is that while Mississippi and Alabama declared their secession ordinances null and void, from the beginning, Georgia has contented itself with simply "repealing," and Florida with simply "annulling" their respective secession ordinances. The practical effect in both cases may be the same; yet it is to be regretted that the most emphatic form was not given to the repudiation of the fatal heresy. It is true that no political dogma was ever buried quite so far beyond the possibility of resurrection as that which this rebellion undertook to carry into practice. Yet, considering the terrible work which has been done in its name, it deserves not only a burial, but to be regularly anathematized and consigned to limbo forever.

Most of the Southern Legislatures are already in session, or are soon to assemble, to supplement the action of the conventions with appropriate legislation. Doubtless there will be men in them who, either from ignorance or malice, will make all the trouble they can. Let them be known and avoided as public enemies. Should the instigations of such malcontents prevail, an early reconstruction would be impossible. Never for an instant is it to be forgotten that the rebellion was completely conquered by the National Government, and that its surrender was absolute. Though it is perfectly true that the States which lent themselves to the rebellion did not and could not thereby incur any forfeiture of their State existence, it is yet none the less true that the great mass of their people did make themselves amenable to the penalties of treason, which embrace every personal forfeiture. The same constitution which secures the life of the States, whatever be their misdoing, establishes the personal crime of high treason, and, in express terms, gives Congress an unrestricted power to declare its punishment. The government has of its own good will proclaimed a general pardon, a comparatively small portion only excepted, and the Northern people have cordially approved its action. But this is no indication that the crime of treason has become any the less abhorred; nor is it a token of a disposition to humor a disloyal spirit in any of its forms. Were it once understood by the government and by the Northern people that the South meant to be perverse and factious in doing what is reasonably required of it as preliminary to its resumption of its constitutional powers, it would be very quickly seen that liberality is a very different quality from feebleness. There could be no yielding to the display of any such spirit by the South. A determination like flint would reveal itself against any restoration claimed in any such temper.

We conjure the Southern people to repel all demagogueism and all faction, and to hold fast to the high impulses which governed their first movements back toward their constitutional position. They have but to comply with the reasonable requirements of the government, to be welcomed with a forgetfulness of the past, and with a promise of their full share of all the glorious fruits of the future. No humiliation is asked of them; no sacrifice of any of their real interests; nothing but what is just in itself and requisite for the future concord of the country.

Attacks on the National Credit.

We suppose the last thing that any patriotic or honorable man should do is to weaken the public faith in the national credit, or the national currency. We do not say that the finances necessarily constitute the weak or the dangerous point in our national future; but if responsible men choose to speak as if our debt were unmanageable, our financial system false, and ultimate repudiation inevitable, they will assuredly in time produce a weak and dangerous condition of that public faith upon which our stability is founded. There are in finances, as in other matters, a vast number of narrow-minded men, who hold an equally vast number of narrow and divergent theories, and each of whom devotes himself to preaching that if his special scheme be not carried out, everything will go to wreck. They generally begin by showing that things are on the verge of ruin already, and that only this or the other measure, of which they hold the patent, can possibly save the country. They are a dangerous class—not, perhaps, that the theories of all of them are dangerous, but that they all seem to think it necessary to destroy the public confidence as a preparation for their theories. When such men get into Congress or into print, they are able to unsettle the faith of thousands, even though able to give nothing satisfactory in place of that which they take away. The Evening Post gives place to another of these ideologists, who begins by declaring that a careful study of our financial condition and prospects "will make any one sad," and then goes on:

> "We have done much, in spite of appearances, to reduce our national wealth, by the war; we are now less industrious in production and more extravagant in consumption than ever before; we are burdened with a debt vaster in proportion to our wealth and numbers than has ever been paid by any nation; and this debt is in forms almost the worst possible for control. Our national credit in the market of the world is lower to-day than ever a civilized nation's has yet been, save when followed by general disaster and repudiation; and is steadily falling lower, month by month. And the prospect before us, presenting fearful difficulties to avert it, is, that the engagements of the Treasury within the next three years must far exceed its possible resources."

After these generalizations we have a fearful exhibition of details, which, of course, are but a prelude to certain financial fantasies of the writer. We do not think it necessary to show the errors of this writer, any more than of ninety-nine per cent. of the others who write or declaim upon the same topic. We merely desire to protest against such a mode of attacking the national credit, or undermining the public confidence through responsible newspapers. And we especially desire to indicate the damage that will be inflicted upon the country, at home and abroad, if this habit of discussing the subject be transferred to Congress.

A Chance for Dramatists.—The gay and festive Emperor of Mexico has commenced the erection of a national theatre, and has offered two prizes, of a thousand dollars each, for the best tragedy and the best comedy to be performed within its walls. Competition is of course open to Americans of both sexes, as the Emperor has invited them freely to his dominions, with all the rights and privileges of citizenship. We do not suppose that Gen. Magruder will compete, or Gen. Price, or Gov. Allen, or Mr. Maury—so none of their countrymen on this side of the lines need anticipate foul play in the matter. The scene of both the tragedy and the comedy should be laid in Mexico itself; the time should be recent, and, in fact, in the era of Maximilian; the incidents should appertain to the history of his reign. The tragedy might open at the moment of the imperial apparition upon Mexican soil, and five acts well filled with bloody circumstance and closing with the death of Liberty, might be effectively wrought up. The comedy might be of a fanciful order, with no scarcity of material. What should be the finale of the play will be apparent a few months hence. Would it not be well to get Napoleon III. to write the epilogue?

The National Taxes.

The National taxation will become less alarming every year, as we become familiar with the most equitable mode of distributing its burdens. The British Chancellor of the Exchequer announced the other day that the excise and customs duty on tobacco alone, brought an amount of revenue almost sufficient to pay the interest on the national debt!

Fifty years ago the national tax in England was equal to an average of $18 per head of the population. To-day the average is a little over $10. Twenty years ago, the tax upon sugar was over six cents a pound. To-day it scarcely averages two cents. Before Peel's time, tea was taxed to the tune of four shillings sterling a pound. To-day the rate is about one-eighth that amount, or nearly twelve cents. Besides this, all constituents of house-building, such as bricks, glass, iron, &c., which used to pay a heavy tax, are now free. The taxes on the necessaries of life, such as meat, bread, &c., were absolutely abolished when free trade was established. We are every day more concerned in studying these facts. The average amount of revenue annually required by the British Government to meet the expenses of the administration and pay the interest on the public debt, has been, for the last twenty years, about $350,000,000. During that time—and mainly while the Russian war was going on—its borrowings were comparatively a bagatelle. Yet the remission of taxes, as we see, on necessaries and what may properly be called working men's comforts, such as tea and sugar, have been equal to a reduction of 30 per cent. on their cost twenty-five years ago.

We shall have to gather what lessons we can—wherever we can—in a science which may be said to be almost entirely new to us; and a careful study of the ways and means operations of the British Exchequer for the last quarter of a century will be found exceedingly profitable and instructive.

Sights for Sight-Seers.—We notice that there is an attempt being made in England to get up a popular excursion, on a large scale, "from London to America, with a short tour in the States." Those who took the pains to peruse the speeches recently made by Sir Morton Peto and others of the English capitalists' party, and who observed the simple wonder expressed by them everywhere at everything they saw, can appreciate the profound ignorance of even the most intelligent classes in England concerning everything in America. These gentlemen had had large amounts of their capital invested in this country for years, had had it invested in the very way which of all others was most likely to make them familiar with our material characteristics and development, and, moreover, had been friendly to us during the war, and therefore all the more likely to be well informed about us; and yet Christopher Columbus was not more astonished by what he saw upon the continent of America in 1492 than Sir Morton Peto and party were at what they saw in 1865.

We think, therefore, that the "grand excursion" to America from London, which it is proposed to get up, is a most excellent idea for enlarging the English intelligence. It should extend as far West as was reached by the capitalists' party, (St. Louis,) from there might go down the Mississippi to Memphis, and thence by rail to Richmond and Washington. They would thus see about a half of the chief cities of the country, and would pass around nearly a quarter of its territory.

Between one and two hundred thousand well-to-do Americans have crossed the ocean this last year to "see the sights" and sovereigns of Europe. If a hundred thousand well-to-do Englishmen should in the coming year cross to this side to see the sights and sovereigns of America, they would be able to write about us for the London Times with some intelligence.

Lessons Taught by the Cattle Plague.—The British Press has begun to agitate the question whether too much meat is not eaten in England. For one pound of meat the people of Scotland consume, the English consume ten. Yet there is quite as much health and muscular vigor north as there is south of the Tweed. Eighteen thousand head of cattle have been sacrificed this year by the plague, and really good meat is quite as dear in London as it is in New-York to-day. Economy has, therefore, become a necessity even with the well-to-do-classes; and some of the journals are occupied in inditing long homilies upon the subject—laying down the law as to the quantity (three-quarters of a pound) which each person may wisely use per day. The London Times is, as usual, wonderfully sage. It observes: "In Winter, at all events, there really is no reason why we should not import our butcher's meat from British American and other transmarine pastures." Why this new trade should be opened in Winter, when the only portions of British America where cattle are to be had, are those which are closed to navigation, we do not exactly understand. We think the British Americans generally will be considerably surprised to find that they are to become large exporters of cattle, either in Winter or Summer.

The National Policy.—There are two possible courses of policy for this country to adopt—on the one hand to go to work energetically reorganizing, developing, and consolidating the political freedom, the institutions, the industry, the labor, the commerce, the finances, and the power of the nation; or, on the other hand, neglecting these things, to pick quarrels and get into wars with foreign powers. A few years of time spent in the first mentioned manner will vastly increase our economic forces and our national power, will give us the results of permanent internal pacification and the vigor of renewed vitality. We will lose nothing that we now have, and will acquire much that we do not now possess. The various diplomatic problems now unsolved will become no more formidable by the postponement for a time of their solution, and questions that are now menacing may become harmless in their character. Those who find fault with our diplomacy because it is not sufficiently "fast" or aggressive to suit their views, will do well to consider these things.

A Healthy Sign.—The Richmond press keeps up a lusty demand for labor. This is a wonderful change from the days when Virginia was wont to make merchandise of her surplus labor, by sending her slaves to the markets of the Cotton States. Virginia finds now that she not only needs all the labor she has in her population of freedmen, but that she requires a large importation to enable her to develop her vast resources. A healthier sign than this could hardly be given. It betokens a vitality in her industrial system which apparently but needed the removal of the curse of slavery to enable her to take the rank among her sister States to which her superabounding natural wealth entitled her. But for slavery it is probable that Virginia to-day would have been the most populous State in the Union. She now invites free labor, and we know of no community where such labor will find better recompense, for the next twenty years at least.

The Fierce Canadians.—We would advise the Canadian newspapers to exhibit a little more self-possession. They have conjured up an imaginary enemy, whom they are perpetually challenging to "come on," and they will show him what awful fighters the provincials are. As time passes on, and no enemy makes his appearance, they get fiercer and fiercer, and their heroics rise higher and higher. They talk about the everlasting "Sixtieth Rifles," the Toronto Volunteers, the Loyal Orangemen, and the Montreal Chasseurs; and we should think that the mere display of their fierce, though motley force, would be enough to frighten the Fenians—if it were possible to do such a thing. We suppose their object in getting up the teapot tempest which now rages is to terrify somebody; but its real effect is to show how absurdly terrified they are themselves.

The New Fire Alarm.—The new system of ringing the alarm bells for fires, recently put into operation by the Board of Fire Commissioners, finds favor with all experienced and candid firemen. The combinations in numbering the sixty-three alarm stations are so simple and devoid of complication that the signals can be easily understood by anybody. During the few days that the telegraph alarm has been in operation, very little confusion or delay has been experienced. As the signal gives the exact neighborhood of the fire the companies properly liable for duty proceed at once to the scene. As soon as the department is perfectly drilled into running to fires by the telegraph, bell-ringing will cease, and the wires will be exclusively relied on.

Religious Tests in England.—The University of Cambridge is open to every religious belief—that is for instruction. But the members of the Senate—the governing body of the university—are required to take an oath of conformity. It appears, however, that the exclusiveness of the body is modified by an arrangement which enables the member once in the Senate, to follow any creed he chooses. Recently a distinguished member of the Church of Rome was elected in spite of his declining to make the required declaration.

AMUSEMENTS.

Niblo's.—Mr. Forrest has given "Othello" twice this week. Of his own performance nothing need be said; the public know it well; they know that it has a great many noble points, and a few strongly marked and disagreeable peculiarities. It is enough, however, to say that it is a great representation, worthy alike of the artist and the highly intelligent audiences that gather to listen and applaud. The cast of the piece is open to objection. It does not strike us that Mr. McCullough is a good Iago. He did not seem to illustrate the wonderful deception and Mephistophilian subtlety of the part; he was too plain and open in tone, so much so that one could not imagine that even the free and unsuspicious Moor would not at once see through his very flimsy disguise. Iago is one of the very best acting parts in the English drama; it is reasonably a more effective character than Othello, and a customary interchange of these parts by the greatest of actors has given them coequal position. Mr. McCullough was accurate in the text, and most carefully elaborated the traditional points; but the inspiration of superior genius was not there. Mr. Burnett's Brabantio was indifferently begun but admirably ended, and deserved more applause than the brevity of its stage existence gives room for. Of the Cassio of Mr. Collier, we have only to say that while evidently appreciating the needs of the part, he was incautious enough to overact it a little, and render it much too melodramatic; a small fault, but one that should be corrected. Mr. Becks ought to surrender Roderigo to somebody—anybody, who can appreciate the difference been a well-bred young gentleman, nursing an improper and hopeless love for one who never could have been approached save with most respectful courtesy, and a dancing-jack of a thing, simpering and fidgeting about the stage like a lunatic. There are many parts that Mr. Becks can do admirably; but this is not one of them. The Desdemona of Miss Agnes Perry was a very praiseworthy performance, modestly and delicately rendered throughout, in thorough harmony with the general interpretation. It is not a part in which to portray force; the graces of gentleness and simple trustfulness in conscious virtue are its main features, and these were well illustrated. If this be a fair specimen of her abilities she has a hopeful prospect. Mrs. Farren was the Emilia, and successfully represented that rather tart and uncomfortable female, justly winning applause in the more emphatic lines. Mr. Forrest will give "Virginius" next, and then repeat "Richelieu."

Winter Garden.—Mr. Clarke has resumed his engagement here and has been enacting his strong part of Bob Brierly in "The Ticket-of-Leave Man." It is a performance well known, and well approved by the public verdict. Mr. Clarke has the faculty, not often possessed by low comedy artists, of altogether laying aside the grimace, tone and gesture of the funny man, and assuming, with close approach to perfection, the serious and the pathetic. In this part he gives some fine touches that would do honor to any actor. His assistants manage to give pretty efficient support, on the whole—some being exceedingly good. Miss Carr, as the housekeeper, was excellent; Miss Eytinge also excellent as May Edwards; Mrs. Walcott only so-so as Emily; Mr. Walcott a very good Hawkshaw; Mr. Dyott as Jem Dalton, and Mr. Bland as Melter Moss, also good. The others are not recollectable without special effort.

Academy of Music.—"Crispino e la Comare" was given last night to an enthusiastic audience, who seemed to forget the inclemency of the weather by the really excellent performance. The finale of the first act was encored, and the curtain had to be raised again in order to satisfy the demand for a repetition. The same applause was bestowed on the other favorite members of the opera. To-night "Ernani" will be given, when Signor Bellini will appear again in his really great rôle of Carlo Junito. This fact will add a new attraction.

Mme. Bostwick, a well-known lady singer, who has made New-York her permanent residence, will give a concert in Irving Hall on Saturday next. The numerous friends of the lady, who justly enjoys a very good reputation as an artist, will not fail to welcome her back to this city.

NEW BOOKS.

OUR MUTUAL FRIEND. By Charles Dickens. With Illustrations, in two parts, 8vo. New-York: Harper & Brothers.

By most readers—fresh from the influence exercised over them by the spell of the author's genius—the last work by Dickens will be considered his best. We fancy, however, that a more matured judgment would place Our Mutual Friend much lower in the long list of Dickens' books, if they were ranked according to merit. It would stand undoubtedly many degrees above (perhaps his worst work) Little Dorrit, but also an equal number below David Copperfield, and the older stories to which he owes his fame. The partiality for an involved plot, combined with an entire absence of the skill to manage and unfold it, though characteristic of Dickens generally, was perhaps never so conspicuous as in his latest work. The crowd of unnecessary persons brought in, and described with singular elaborateness and detail, and then dismissed or forgotten, was never so much in the reader's way before, and yet, curiously enough, the author speaks in his Preface of the pains employed in devising the story, and the ingenuity shown in conducting it. Of course, in every book that Dickens writes, there must be many characters and scenes that could originate with no one else—much rich and fanciful appropriate detail founded on the close observation of nature that no one else could give us, and a hearty sympathy with the right, and hatred and cruelty of oppression. These will all be found in Our Mutual Friend. The portrait gallery that we owe to Dickens is enlarged by the never-to-be-forgotten pair, Mr. and Mrs. Boffin, although the simplicity that distinguishes them is strangely at variance by the author's device, by which they assume fictitious characters and language in a plot, even though its object is a good one. There is no occasion to discuss at length a book now in every one's hands. Were it a total failure, its sale would scarcely be diminished, for it takes a long time for an author like Dickens to write himself down, and of this we happily see no signs.

PLAIN TALK ON FAMILIAR SUBJECTS. By Timothy Titcomb, (Dr. J. G. Holland.) 12mo. New York: Charles Scribner & Co.

Dr. Holland's new book is modeled on the same plan as his former works, and is no doubt destined to meet with an equal degree of success. He still speaks ex cathedra as a guide, teacher and censor, unsparing in his denunciations of social and individual shams and weaknesses, while pointing out the better path to his readers. Even unpopular truths seem to lose their sting and bitterness when expressed in the strong, straightforward English, with the earnestness of manner and fertility of homely illustration that has made "Timothy Titcomb" a household name throughout the land. "Fashion," "Self Help," "Work and Play," and other similar topics form the subjects of the "plain talk" with his readers contained in this volume. It needs no recommendation for those who are already familiar with Dr. Holland's mode of treatment of his subjects, containing as it does the maturest fruit of his observations in modern society. The book is got up in the publishers usual excellent style.

WALT. WHITMAN'S DRUM TAPS. 12mo. New-York. 1865.

Mr. Whitman has strong aspirations toward poetry, but he is wanting entirely in the qualities that Praed possessed in such large measure. He has no ear, no sense of the melody of verse. His poems only differ from prose in the lines being cut into length, instead of continuously pointed. As prose, they must be gauged by the sense they contain, the mechanism of verse being either despised by, or out of the reach of the writer. Considered as prose, then, we find in them a poverty of thought, paraded forth with a hubbub of stray words, and accompanied with an vehement self-assertion in the author, that betrays an absence of true and calm confidence in himself and his impulses. Mr. Whitman has fortunately better claims on the gratitude of his countrymen than any he will ever derive from his vocation as a poet. What a man does, is of far greater consequence than what he says or prints, and his devotion to the most painful of duties in the hospitals at Washington during the war, will confer honor on his memory when Leaves of Grass are withered and Drum Taps have ceased to vibrate.

SONGS OF PRAISE, AND POEMS OF DEVOTION OF THE CHRISTIAN CENTURIES. With Introduction. By Henry Coppee, Professor of English Literature in the University of Pennsylvania. Royal 8vo. Philadelphia: E. H. Butler & Co.

This is another of the truly splendid volumes that reflect credit on the press of the country, and remind one, by their presence, of the flight of time and the rapidly advancing season of Christmas, for which they are chiefly prepared. The selection of the poem scomprised in Songs of Praise is such as might be expected from the accomplished editor, but the chief feature of the book are its illustrations. These are no less than sixty in number, engraved on steel by the first artists, and printed as vignettes, interspersed among the letter-press. This style of embellishment gives to the pages a richness of effect unattainable by any other method. The book is emphatically a handsome one in all its appointments, and takes decided rank among the most elegant gift books produced in this country.

THE POETICAL WORKS OF WINTHROP MACKWORTH PRAED. With a Memoir. By Rev. Derwent Coleridge. 2 vols., 24mo.; "blue and gold" edition. New-York: W. J. Middleton.

Praed was a born poet if ever one existed, and would probably have become a great one had his lot fallen in a sphere more congenial to the effusions of fancy. By no writer, not even Moore himself, has the English language been molded at will into such airy tones and musical rhythm. Praed's ear for the melody of verse was exquisite. What remains of him constituted only the amusement of his youthful days, much indeed of it dating from the era of boyhood. Enough, however, is there to show how the true poet would have ripened and matured had his life been spared and its current been allowed to flow at his own will. This beautiful little edition is an evidence that the public can appreciate genuine poetry, and will command a large sale.

Messrs. HURD & HOUGHTON'S JUVENILE BOOKS.—THE FABLES OF ÆSOP. With 111 engravings, from designs by Herrick. Fine edition. 12mo.

ADVENTURES OF A LITTLE FRENCH BOY. By Alfred de Bichart. With fifty illustrations. By Ed. Morin. Crown, 8vo.

THE LIFE AND ADVENTURES OF ROBINSON CRUSOE. With 100 illustrations. By Wehnoot. Crown, 8vo.

THE CHILDREN IN THE WOOD. Told in verse by R. H. Stoddard. Printed in oil colors by J. Bien. 4to.

THE STORY OF LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD. By R. H. Stoddard. Illustrated by Fredericks. 4to.

These are only a small selection from a list of novelties for young folks that would nearly fill one of our columns if printed at length. Of Messrs. Hurd & Houghton's Æsop we have already spoken. Though unquestionably a juvenile book, the edition has claims of a higher kind as a specimen of typographic art among the most perfect ever produced in this country. The Adventures of a French Boy is a story of great interest that will be new to most readers; it will hold a valued place in future on the juvenile book shelf. Mr. Wehnert's clear and bold pencil is admirably adapted for the illustration of Robinson Crusoe. The number of embellishments and their high artistic character cause this edition to be considered decidedly the favorite one of this immortal work. Mr. Stoddard's new rendering of the stories dear to the youth of present and past generations has been received with great favor by the public. The elegant style of their ornamentation and adornment marks the commencement of a new era in the production of books for the young which will in future claim the exercise of the highest graphic talent, which can indeed in no other way be so profitably employed as by familiarizing the eyes of youth with the best models.

ON THE CAM.—LECTURES ON THE UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE, IN ENGLAND. By William Everett, A. M. Cambridge, Mass.: Siver & Francis.

Mr. Everett bears an honored name, and is likely to support it with no diminution of renown. He was entered at Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1859, and remained there until 1863, when he took his degree. The lectures included in this volume were intended to convey more accurate information respecting one of the English universities than is usually in the possession of the American public. A similar work, by C. A. Burbid, will probably recur to the remembrance of many. Mr. Everett's book, however, differs from that, in being more general and historical in its object and less personal in its details. The lectures occasionally indulge in a florid exuberance of style, suggestive of youthful authorship. They abound, however, in information, and are written in a spirit creditable to the author.

THE HUMBUGS OF THE WORLD; an Account of Humbugs, Delusions, Impositions, Quackeries, Deceits and Deceivers Generally, of all Ages. By P. T. Barnum. 12mo. New-York: G. W. Carleton.

When Mr. Barnum writes from his own experience, as in the portion of this work entitled "Personal Reminiscences," he is always amusing and often instructive, for instance, in his account of the true origin and objects of the famous "Miscegenation" pamphlet, which is a curious piece of secret literary and political history. When, however, he tells about the South Sea Bubble, Joanna Southcote, or Apollonius of Tyana, he can only repeat facts that are easily obtainable in a more authentic shape. Still the book is an entertaining one, and the exposé of the wonderful amount of credulity existing among the sharpest of nations—a mine which advertising swindlers and and others as continually working for their own profit—is enough to draw a sigh from the philosopher who meditates on the weaknesses of humanity.

THE TOUR OF DR. SYNTAX IN SEARCH OF THE PICTURESQUE. Illustrated by "Alfred Crowquill." 18mo. Boston: Roberts Brothers.

We cannot think that this attempt to resuscitate an obsolete book will be a successful one. Combe's feeble and wire-drawn poem was written to order, to illustrate the comic colored drawings of Richardson, an artist of some humor and more coarseness. The place of them is supplied in this miniature edition by cuts designed by Mr. Forester, better known as "Alfred Crowquill," but they hardly meet the requirements of an age accustomed to the beautiful drawings of Leech, Millais, and the present school of book illustrators.

GEMS FROM TENNYSON. 4to. Boston: Ticknor & Fields.

This elegant volume contains a selection of the most admired pieces of the Laureate, illustrated by fine wood-cut embellishments. In one respect the plan of the book is a bold one, as the publishers have combined in one work the productions of English and American artists. It is sufficient to say that the latter undoubtedly "hold their own" in the comparison, and that some of the best illustrations in the book are from original drawings by our home artists. The mechanical execution of the book is deserving of all praise, and the general effect is highly satisfactory even to the most fastidious and cultivated taste.

OUR CITY MILITARY.

Novel Ceremony—Presentation of Medals of Merit to Members of the Twenty-Second Regiment—Orders.

The spacious armory of the Twenty-second Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., in Fourteenth-street, near Sixth-avenue, was last evening crowded by a select audience, composed of friends of the regiment, who, despite the inclemency of the weather, had assembled to witness the interesting ceremony of presenting eight medals of merit to a member from each company, chosen by the respective Captains, as the best soldier in that company for drill, discipline and general conduct. The medals are popularly known as the "Aspinwall Medals," being presented by the Colonel of the regiment, Lloyd Aspinwall. These beautiful medals were manufactured at Paris, and are composed of silver. On the obverse is the design of a shield, supported on either side by American flags, the whole in bold relief. On the shield is engraved the State arms, the figures "22" being placed beneath. Over the shield is the motto of the State, "Excelsior." On the reverse are the words "Military Merit," with the name of the recipient and date of presentation. Beneath stand Col. Aspinwall's initials.

The armory was brilliantly lighted, and gaily decorated with regimental and State banners. The greater part of the audience was composed of the lady friends of the regiment, who evinced the liveliest interest in the proceedings.

The regimental line was formed at 8 o'clock, and as the companies were marching on parade, Col. Aspinwall, now acting as Brigade Commander of the Fourth Brigade, came in and took a seat in front. Accompanying the Colonel were Maj.-Gen. Francis C. Barlow, Secretary of State elect; Maj.-Gen. Sandford, Gen. Abram Duryee, Inspector Carpenter, and several others identified with the First Division.

The usual routine for formation of parade having been gone through with, Lieut.-Col. Cox, commanding the regiment, exercised the command in the manual of arms, after which the successful competitors for the company medals were called to the front. Their names were Sergt. George B. Goldsmit, Co. A; Sergt. Jno. D. Edwards, Co. B; Corp. Wm. M. Taylor, Co. C; Sergt. Theodore H. Freeland, Co. D; Sergt. Edward Bussell, Co. F; Sergt. John Briggs, Co. G; Private Wm. Wallace, Co. H; Sergt. Theodore F. Allen, Co. I.

The regiment was then addressed by Col. Aspinwall, who explained his motives for presenting the medals, stating that he did so to encourage a spirit of emulation among the members of his regiment. He spoke of the custom of medals being given to soldiers in Europe, and thought that the practice would prove beneficial even in militia organizations. Col. Aspinwall then proceeded to affix the medal to the breast of each of the successful candidates.

Major-Gen. Sanford was introduced, and made some remarks upon the high standing the First Division had attained by strict attention to duty and the observance of rigid discipline. He complimented the regiment on their rising reputation.

Major-Gen. Barlow was next introduced, and was received with enthusiasm. His remarks were full of interest, as he spoke of his having commenced his military career in the ranks of the First Division, and that, as a member of the State Government, he would always feel an interest in the militia organization of the State. In speaking of the reputation of the Twenty-second, Gen. Barlow said he trusted they would always strive to maintain that reputation at its present standing.

The parade was then dismissed, and the assemblage gradually broke up, Dodworth's fine band performing several choice airs as the audience dispersed. The officers of the regiment and the guests of the evening accompanied Col. Aspinwall to Delmonico's, where several toasts were duly drank.

Obituary.

MRS. MIRIAM HOLTON BROWN.

Died at Le Claire, Scott County, Iowa, Nov. 8, Mrs. Miriam Holton Brown, aged 58 years, 8 days. A native of Westminster, V.t, for many years a teacher of a boarding and day school for young ladies in New-York City, she had recently been a resident in Wisconsin. The disease which terminated her active life was that of the heart, intensified by the malarious influences prevailing in those portions of Illinois and Iowa, where, for several weeks she had been, in connection with friends, laboring in the interest of our patriot orphans, for whom she felt a deep sympathy, and for whose support and education she had generously contributed.

Personal.—Mrs. Jenny Kempton, the popular contralto, who went to Europe by the steamer of the 17th, intends studying the coming year with Romani at Florence.

Gen Grant Takes a Ride Behind the Celebrated Trotting Mare "Peerless."—On Monday Gen. Grant took a ride with Mr. Bonner, who had Peerless in a top wagon for the occasion. They first went to the Bloomingdale road, Mr. Bonner driving. Afterward, Gen. Grant drove, and finally they went to Dubois' private trotting track. Here the gray mare was taken out of the top wagon and hitched up to a skeleton wagon. Mr. Bonner drove her a turn in 1m. 16s., timed by Gen. Grant. The track was heavy, but the rate good. Gen. Grant then got in and drove a turn, Mr. Bonner timing it. The mare made a break, but nevertheless covered the ground in 1m. 17½s. No stranger ever drove the gray mare better than Gen. Grant, and Mr. Bonner thinks him an excellent driver. We understand it was the first time he had ever been in a skeleton wagon, and we are sure Mr. Bonner ought to know what belongs to the art in respect to a gentleman driving on the road, or on a private course, for time.—Wilkes' Spirit of the Times.

The Roman correspondent of the Daily News writes: "Archbishop Manning has left Rome for England. It is generally believed that the Pope has determined upon creating another archbishop in England, and that Dr. Ullathorne, now Bishop of Birmingham, will be the new archbishop, and be made titular primate of the North of England. The two prelates will most likely receive the Cardinal's hat together next Summer, when there is to be an immense assembly of bishops from all parts of the world in Rome."

Good News.—What better news to the afflicted than to inform them of a remedy that is going to restore them to health? Have you the Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint? Are your digestive organs debilitated or your nervous system affected? If so, at once resort to the use of Hoofland's German Bitters and you will be completely and permanently cured. For sale by druggists. They contain no whisky.—Philadelphia Exchange.

As the first aroma of the ordinary extracts for the handerkerchief fades away, a detestable odor takes its place; but the perfume of Phalon's Night-blooming Cereus only grows more deliciously delicate by exposure to the air.—Batavia Advocate.

It relieves the child from pain, invigorates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, and carries the infant safely through the critical period of teething.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC!
DR. VON EISENBERG'S
ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON,
THE CELEBRATED APPARATUS.

From the New-York Express.

So many able and earnest men are devoting themselves to medical investigation, that it would be strange if new discoveries were not made. Among the most brillant of these—we may indeed say the most brilliant of all—is that of Dr. Von Eisenberg, in regard to the Etherealization of Medicines: we may properly call it the "Spiritualization," since the Latin Spiritus, whence comes our word "Spiritual," signifies primarily, simply 'the air."

Many of the most important and vital organs of the human frame cannot be reached by medicines in a solid or even in a liquid form. Thus the lungs are shut up in a bony chest to which access can be had only through the wind-pipe, the opening of which is closed by a valve, called the "epiglottis," so sensitive and so delicately constructed, that it will not allow the passage, except by main force, of the most minute crumb, or the smallest drop of liquid. Every person who has "swallowed the wrong way" the smallest substance, whether of liquid or solid, knows the feeling of strangulation thereby occasioned. A man cannot, if he would, voluntarily swallow any liquid or solid into the lungs, or the passage leading to them. Herein lies the true reason why Consumption has been so incurable.

As to the entire apparatus, we have no hesitation in saying that we regard it as a wonderful invention—one that, were it not so costly, we have little doubt would be adopted by every hospital and medical college in the country. We are satisfied it would well repay, even if he had to journey all the way from Europe, the scientific man to see and examine it. It is a marvel of mechanical complexity, and yet, when its multiform uses are considered, of extreme simplicity and great beauty. That it will in every respect fulfill the expectations of the inventor, we have every reason to believe. It has been constructed with an accurate knowledge of its ultimate uses. One so experienced in the specialities for which it is particularly intended as is Dr. Von Eisenberg, and for which he has tong felt the necessity in his practice, could make no failure. With it he is enabled to surmount obstacles that were hitherto deemed all but impossible to control. He can now approach with certainty and diagnose thoroughly every disease that, in the course of his extended practice, he aims to master. To those, therefore, who are in any way afflicted with loss of sight or hearing, with catarrh, bronchitis, chest or lung diseases, we earnestly suggest a visit to the consulting apartments of Dr. Von Eisenberg. There he will be speedily made to know the possibility of a cure in even complicated cases. We hereto observe that the apparatus is intended also to bring the etherealized medicines into direct action upon the nerves. The nervous system is the source of many diseases. All physicians admit this, and all profess at least to be able to apply a remedy. The Allopathic, Homeopathic and Hydropathic, by prescribing opiates, anodynes, &c., may, and do, alleviate the pain arising from impaired or diseased nerves; but this does not restore the nerve, it is only temporary relief—a relief, too, to some one nerve at the expense of the entire system. The Æsthetico-Neuralgicon of Dr. Von Eisenberg not merely allays the irritation, but restores the nerve to its normal condition. The Doctor's theory is, that each nerve has a specific office, and has its own peculiar susceptibility. Thus, for example, the nerve of vision is insensible to touch; and, on the other hand, ohe nerve of touch is insensible to light, and so on through the whole system.

From the Journal of Commerce.

We think it is but just to Dr. Von Eisenberg to call public attention to him. There are hundreds in the community suffering from catarrh, if not actually praying for death, who are ready to accept of anything that promises to relieve them from their distresses. To such we would say, trifle not with inexperienced men, but consult, without unnecessary delay, Dr. Von Eisenberg, who, at least, has the honesty to assure his patients whether it is in his power to make them whole or not.

HEARING RESTORED BY A SINGLE APPLICATION OF THE ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON. READ! READ!

New-York, May 4, 1865.

I have been induced, by the great number of certificates continually published in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's skill, to apply to him for advice concerning my deafness of many years' standing. I placed myself under his care, and to my utmost delight he made me hear perfectly well by a single painless application of Dr. Von Eisenberg's "Æsthetico-Neuralgicon." I have great pleasure in being able to state that his skill in restoring hearing surpasses anything I ever saw or heard of. His attention to the patient is highly commendable.

JOHN WAKELY, No. 104 Monroe-st.

MIRACULOUS CURE OF THE CHRONIC CATARRH, ASSUMING THE FORM OF CONSUMPTION.

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, and a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting of blood. I have been treated by many eminent physicians without success. Recently the Catarrh became so offensive that I could not go into society. Hearing of DR. VON EISENBERG'S new invention, I thought I would apply to him as a last resource. Having been satisfied with his diagnosis, I submitted to his treatment, and have every reason to be abundantly satisfied, as I am completely cured, and my health so much renovated that I feel better than I felt for the last fifteen years. It is a blessing that experience gives the Doctor the power to restore such a shattered constitution to perfect vigor. I now feel very happy to be able to give this testimonial in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's inimitable skill.

Meserole-av.,
Greenpoint, Long Island.

RESTORATION OF SIGHT.

I, Lawrence Grenna, No. 186 East 36th-st., New-York City, have been suffering from blindness of the left eye for a considerable period. The eye was continually in a state of great inflammation, from which the good eye became affected, and, indeed, my general health was greatly injured by it. Hearing of Dr. Von Eisenberga' great reputation, and as every one said mine was a hopeless case, I called on the Doctor, who, after examining me, undertook my case, and within a fortnight I found myself almost completely cured. It is now a month since I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's treatment, and I am happy to be able to state that the inflammation is entirely gone, so that I see perfectly with both eyes, added to which I am in good health—a blessing I have not enjoyed since I was blind. I do conscientiously and gratefully swear to the above statement, in a court of justice, at the City Hall o. the City of New-York, the 10th day of October, 1864.

LAWRENCE GRENNA.

Sworn before me this 10th day of October, 1864.

C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.
{The Grand seal of the New-York Mayoralty.}

Thousands of testimonials similar to the above can be seen at Dr VON EISENBERG'S office,
No. 816 Broadway, New-York.

MR. BUCHANAN'S ADMINISTRATION.

D. APPLETON & CO.,
NOS. 443 AND 445 BROADWAY,
Publish This Day,
MR. BUCHANAN'S ADMINISTRATION
ON THE
EVE OF THE REBELLION.
1 vol. 8vo, cloth, $2 50.

The following historical narrative of the events preceding the late rebellion was prepared soon after its outbreak, substantially in the present form. It may be asked, Why, then, was it not published at an earlier period? The answer is that the publication was delayed to avoid the possible imputation, unjust as this would have been, that any portion of it was intended to embarrass Mr. Lincoln's administration in the vigorous prosecution of pending hostilities. The author deemed it far better to suffer temporary injustice than to expose himself to such a charge. He never doubted the successful event of the war, even during its most gloomy periods. Having drawn his first breath soon after the adoption of the Federal Constitution and the Union which it established, and having been an eye-witness of the blessed effects of these, in securing liberty and prosperity at home, and in presenting an example to the oppressed of other lands, he felt an abiding conviction that the American people would never suffer the Great Charter of their rights to be destroyed. To the Constitution, as interpreted by its framers, he has ever been devoted, believing that the specific powers which it confers on the Federal Government, notwithstanding the experience of the last dreary years, are sufficient for almost every possible emergency, whether in peace or in war. He therefore claims the merit—if merit it be simply to do one's duty—that whilst in the exercise of Executive functions he never violated any of its provisions.

It may be observed that no extensive and formidable rebellion of an intelligent people against an established government has ever risen without a long train of previous and subsidiary causes. A principal object of the author, therefore, is to present to the reader a historical sketch of the antecedents ending in the late rebellion.—Extract from Preface.

CIRCULAR.—OFFICE OF KENDRICK & THOMAS, COMMISSION BROKERS.—Miscellaneous stocks and bonds, State, county, city and railroad securities not quoted at the New-York Stock Exchange. Also bonds of the Southern States, their municipalities and corporations. No. 42 Exchange-place. (Late the office of Geo. W. Hodges, Esq.)
NEW-YORK, Nov. 15, 1865.

We give our exclusive attention to buying and selling stocks and bonds not sold or quoted at the regular stock board, and make that business a specialty. Having had several years' experience in that line of business, with an extensive acquaintance and correspondence throughout the United States, we are prepared to execute orders for the purchase and sale of every description of security in the shape of bonds and stocks of the several States, their municipalities and corporations—having an intimate knowledge of their values and markets. We keep a record of every change effecting prices, and are thoroughly posted on all points. It would be advantageous to parties desiring to sell, and we recommend them to register their securities at our office, so that investors calling daily may select and purchase, thereby meeting an easy, ready and prompt sale. We have a number of institutions with whom we negotiate large lots of State, city and county bonds, and are receiving orders from them from time to time to make purchases. At the present we are dealing extensively in Southern securities, comprising State, city and railway stocks and bonds. Parties wishing to register can do so by letter or otherwise, without expense, and no commissions charged unless sales are effected. A complete description and limit in price is important. We have established our business upon a systematic basis, and our house is the only one in the line of business embracing the whole field and mass of outside securities. Quotations freely given, and prompt attention to all matters of business.
KENDRICK & THOMAS.

THOUSANDS ARE TIMELY SAVED BY Dr. KENNEDY'S skillful and improved treatment.—Private diseases cured in the shortest possible time by Dr. KENNEDY & CO., No. 195 Elm-st., New-York, without the use of mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. KENNEDY, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years' practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. KENNEDY, No. 195 Elm-st. Call, send or write.

A. M. MAURICEAU, PROFESSOR OF midwifery and operating surgeon, having over thirty years' successful practice in this city, guarantees a safe and immediate removal of all special irregularities and obstructions in females, without pain or exposure, with or without medicine. Can be consulted with the utmost confidence at his private office, No. 129 Liberty-st., New-York, or by mail.

Dr. A. M. Mauriceau is the author of "The Married Woman's Private Medical Companion," strictly intended for those whose health and circumstances forbid a too rapid increase of family; a perusal of which will convince any lady of his thorough knowledge of her complaints. Every lady who has it is secure from danger and imposition. Price $1. Sold at his office No. 129 Liberty-st., or sent by mail, by addressing Box No. 1,224 New-York City. SOUTHERN DESTITUTION

Meeting at the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

Speeches of A. A. Low, Rev. Dr. Storrs, Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. Dr. Bellows and General Fiske.

Free Labor the Only Hope of the South.

A meeting in aid of the South was held last night, at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, at which perhaps five hundred persons attended, a number which would have been multiplied many times had the night been pleasant.

On motion of Hon. J. S. T. STRANAHAN, Mr. A. A. LOW was made Chairman of the meeting and was greeted with applause.

Mr. LOW expressed his gratification at being called to preside on the occasion. He alluded to the many meetings held during the war for the assistance of the government, pledging life and substance to the aid of the country; to the meetings held upon the return of Brooklyn's sons from the field of battle, and to the many charitable gatherings which have illustrated the past four years. Now, however, said he, we meet again to contemplate some of the consequences of the civil war that have taken with marked severity upon the people of the South—a people peeled and scarred by the desolation of war. The people suffer in want, and it is our duty to meet these wants.

Mr. LOW then read a letter from Georgia addressed to Brig.-Gen. ALEXANDER, which narrated certain instances of destitution in the track of SHERMAN's army. One lady is so poor that she has to beg her daily bread, sending her little children to school without food. Whole families live on dried fruit, while some have not even this poor substitute.

Rev. Dr. STORRS was then introduced, and in stating the objects of the meeting called attention to the total destruction of crops, houses, implements and utensils in the track of SHERMAN's army, which, like a fiery scythe, cut a swath sixty miles wide and one thousand miles long; to the absolute loss of the Confederate money and the uselessness of the Confederate bonds; to the great destruction of life—in the State of Alabama alone thirty-five thousand young and middle-aged men; the forsaking of tillage by servants; the vast number of families dependent upon charity, and the valueless means for their support; to the great moral stroke which has fallen upon the South, which makes them dispirited and undesirous of labor; to the unsettled state of society, the base put uppermost; to the certain destiny of the South, with the sleepless sunshine resting upon it; to the certain consequences which must follow the introduction of free labor and immigration, and to the glorious possibilities of that section of the country. The three classes are:

1. Those who have resources.
2. The white people who have none.
3. The freedmen, some of whom have resources, while others are not so well off.

Reading from a letter, Dr. STORRS said: "Chickens and grain are entirely gone from us; I have not seen a smile in all my tour. Some of the people have not eaten meat in three months." Other extracts revealed the most fearful destitution on the part of those who in days gone by were in affluent circumstances. The correspondent at Savannah told a terrible story of the sufferings of people throughout that State, while one in North Carolina more than equaled it. The Doctor then made an eloquent appeal to the generosity and magnanimity of the audience, in behalf of those who need food, clothing, shelter, schooling, books, implements of industry, seeds, sympathy, and the inspiration of hope. He deprecated governmental aid, as calculated to make paupers of them, preferring such aid as the Freedmen's Relief Society, the Union Aid Commission, and the American Missionary Association, which cover the entire ground of white and black aid, and moral education and influence. The last society has 21 men in the District of Columbia, 1,500 pupils in Richmond, 2,000 in Wilmington, in Sea Island over 2,000, 700 of whom are adults. Contending that there had been no hostility against the South during the war, the Doctor closed by urging an exhibition of magnanimity toward the people of the South.

At the conclusion of Rev. Dr. STORRS' address, Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER was introduced and spoke as follows:

SPEECH OF MR. BEECHER.

It has been well said by my brother this evening that we do not propose to pauperize the South, nor to bear in our arms this gigantic poverty. We bear food in one hand for to-day, and seed-corn in the other, that they may no longer want bread, having the grain of their own harvests. We bear books, which we have printed, that they themselves may ere long print their own books. We want to feed and clothe them to-day, that they may not any longer need either clothing or food. We propose to bestow our charities for an exigency and such a one as never was known before, it seems to me, in the midst of such a prosperous nation as this. While we aim at relieving their present distress, we desire above all to keep in view the greater thing, the total reorganization of the South. "Do you propose, then", some may inquire, "to carry Northern ideas into the South? And is it your fond delusion, your sectional notion, that you are going to change the manners and customs of the Southern people, and that you can impart your Northern notions and Yankee ideas over the South? Do you propose so gigantic a work as this?" Just so far forth as the North has accepted God's universal laws, we propose to carry them into the South, and no further. No half laws—no mere manners and customs—nothing except that which is universal and enforced law do we propose to carry into the South. If there be one thing that is becoming law more and more absolutely, in Russia, in Asia, in Europe, on every land and every continent, it is the law of labor. The questions of Europe to-day are not the questions of a hundred years or fifty years ago. The two great forms into which the question in Europe is being presented and agitated at the present time, are: first, the independence of nations among nations; secondly, and more than this, the coming question—not half waked up yet, not half discussed—the right of the laborer. Beneath the work is the great law by which God is raising the world to civilization and to Christianity; and it is awakening Europe, and beginning to oscillate even on this very continent; for, though we have opened our ports to the laboring people of the world, and brought them hither by every inducement of land, of schools and of labor, and rightfully have clothed the poor pauper laborer of Europe, when he came here, with the franchise of the citizen, ennobling him, and dignifying him, and preparing him for the performance of more exalted duties; and better yet, to rear his children, who have begun to experience the benefit of this material augmentation, we have not met the question in its fullest scope. Still from the East we hear the sound of surging laborers, asking for—what? Asking for more wages? No, for more time, less work. And why is it? Is their competition limited and hindered? No, We are coming in this progress, after having achieved the right of every man to work, to the second step of the revolution, which is the dignifying of the workman. Rich men's sons have always had the right to be educated, and poor men's sons if they could; but we are coming to the time when poor men are going to be educated too, as well as their sons, (applause;) when men demand that there shall be, out of the inexcusable, hard and grinding work, time enough in the morning and time enough at night for the master workman to be a master in his own family; for a man that can toil with the hands and feet is better for toiling with the brain. Institutions—educational, political, ecclesiastical—are good for nothing except as they augment essentially the manhood of the generation or nation. [Applause.] The great work of the North now is, not to make drudges of men, but to teach the drudge to become a workman, to take off from the workman the restrictions of mere groveling and menial labor;—first drudge, then workman: last, man without the work. [Applause.] That is the course we are pursuing here. That is the way God is drawing men toward Him—lifting them higher and higher on the plane of labor, until they are fully developed. Now, it is because we believe in the North that we have begun on the right principle,—the principle of divine and universal natural law—that we propose to inculcate that principle in the South; not because it is ours, but because it is theirs, though they do not at present recognize it; and my hope of the reconstruction of the South lies on the labor system. The South, as to labor, has been heretofore very much as an Indiana forest, in which you can go and touch tree by tree over the whole broad acre, is to the crop you attempt to plant in it. You can raise no crop. As long as the South had that mischief of servile labor, the labor system could never be developed there. That system of work was to healthy labor as warts and carbuncles are to a healthy man; they may be bulky, but they are not wholesome. [Laughter.] At the same time I never dreamed of seeing the end in my day. But the deliverer has come, and, though dark clouds were underneath him, and in his hand was the sword that was drunk with blood, he was a deliverer still. Slavery has destroyed itself. The slave is a man, and like other men, he is subject to the operation of those great laws to which we are subject. When you bring him under the influence of those laws of hope and fear which so greatly influence us, he will respond to them, though not, perhaps, as quickly as the Anglo-Saxon. Far be it from me to suppose that there is anybody else like the Anglo-Saxon, [applause and laughter,] and I do not pull him down from his proud preeminence when I say that the other races of the world are so nearly like him that they are subject to the same great natural laws. I do not pretend to say that the black man will ever be equal to the Yankee, though I do pretend to say that he will follow hard after. [Applause.] I am told "the nigger won't work." Well, I don't know as I would have worked if I had been in his place. [Laughter.] I should like to know who would work having a receiver over him to appropriate all the proceeds of his industry. There was no inducement presented to encourage him to work. The Indians, under the same circumstances, would not have worked. He furnished, in his conduct during these years of servitude, a wonderful example of humbleness and docility. It illustrates a certain trait of character that is utterly incomprehensible to my Yankee brain. Give him the prospect of a piece of ground that shall be his own, a prospect of rising in the world, stimulate him by ambition, awaken those dormant feelings so long sought to be crushed out of him, and the black man, though he may not work as we do, will work as he ought to, and as it is in his genius and nature to work. He will have his own way of doing it, but he will be a workman so soon as you shall have developed in him that spirit of work, and you will then have a foundation laid for a prosperity which no seer nor prophet can discern. If the people of the South do not work, they cannot eat. I do not think it is well for a man to have many at work for him. If it is ever brought to pass that the young mothers of this day shall be as those of the days gone by, who did not consider it inconsistent with a cultured lady's position to work her full share in the household, working mornings and till after the noonday meal, then changing her garments and resorting to social enjoyment and recreation, it will be more creditable to us. Instead, therefore, of sympathizing with those at the South who complain that their slaves have left them and that they are obliged to do their own work, I am very glad of it. [Applause.] I am very glad of anything that teaches persons that they are able to work, and compels them to work if they are not inclined to do it. I like to see a man carry his own bundles; I like to see a man trundle his own wheelbarrow; I like to see a woman tend her own garden; I like to see the economy of the house carried on by mother and daughter, as well as by father and son; and it is a better state of society in which there is some work for every man's leisure, and some leisure for every man's work. [Applause.] I am rejoiced to see that after all the suffering that has been undergone, there is coming to be a healthier state of things—a better condition in society. The first thing that Southern society wants is work and respect for work. If you want to make a man respect work, make him work. [Applause.] And when he has wrought, and eaten the bread that tastes never so sweet as when he wipes the sweat from his brow, conscious that he is dependent upon nobody, he respects work and workmen. Now, it is on this wonderful power of work for the black man and for the white man in the South that I build my hopes for the future. So far, I feel that God has worked by a great natural law, deeper than schools and deeper than churches,—deeper, not in the sense of importance, but of present efficacy. But what is all this preliminary discussion of political economy about? I will tell you. I regard the man, in the South or in the North, who undertakes to say that you cannot do anything with the black people, as a traitor to God, a traitor to country, a traitor to patriotism. I have faith in man. I don't believe there is a nation so low, that there is a class of people in a civilized country so poor, that if you are faithful and apply proper stimulants, it will not respond. I have faith to believe that these people will respond to the universal touch of human nature. More than that, one of the most important things to be settled in the South is, you cannot expatriate the black man; you cannot colonize, you cannot export him. He has got to stay; he must live with you and you must live with him, and the question is, whether you will live decently together or torment and harass each other. As long as you allow the supposition to rest in your minds, that the black man, your former slave, can be colonized in Mexico or anywhere else, you will only be prolonging your difficulties and complicating your policy. The moment the South determines to retain the black man, to educate him, develop him as rapidly as possible, and make an intelligent citizen of him, just that moment the difficulty is all solved. I think we shall be surprised at the rapidity with which the Southern people adopt this latter view. More important than all else is that the South accept her new industrial condition. Her future depends more, I think, upon that than upon any other point. I think the South will accept the fiat, the law of God; that there will one day be an ignoring of color and caste; when he that feels, he that loves and is faithful to all the duties of affection, he that toils for sustenance will be called a man; when black men shall have the right to vote. [Applause.] I believe more and more every day that the people of the South have discarded all hatred. Our work is to bind them to us; it is emphatically one of peace. We must use the opportunity wisely and in reference to certain great laws, natural and political. I look forward to the time when I can go to every State of the Union, and feel that I am a citizen of this great united, virtuous nation. [Loud applause.]

A letter was then read from Chief-Justice CHASE, by Mr. MCKIM, in which he said that nothing but imperative duty would have kept him from attending the meeting.

SPEECH OF DR. BELLOWS.

Dr. BELLOWS, President of the Sanitary Commission, was then introduced, and said that so far as his influence was concerned, he would urge all men and women to co-operate actively with the three commissions that appeared before them on this occasion. He paid a well-deserved compliment to the City of Brooklyn for its continuous patriotism during the war, and expressed the hope that she would exert the same intelligent and Christian influence in aid of the cause which now appealed to the Northern communities. He spoke warmly in favor of sympathy and temporary aid for the freedmen, who should now be known as freemen, rather than as freedmen, and showed that the public sentiment of the people of Brooklyn was by no means a parallel with that of the population of the Northern and Southern citizens, where a decided antipathy yet exists against the colored man, denying him the rights of manhood. He argued that the combination of these three societies was the noblest harmony yet worked out by the orchestra of public sentiment, and trusted that the support of the people would be hearty and genuine. He said, let us go to work organizing and schooling the North in aid of these noble societies, uniting heart and work in behalf of the common object. Let us organize everywhere, giving of our abundance for the spreading of knowledge among the people who have been so hetcheled by the plowshare of war. Let us remember we must not despise these people; they held us at bay for four years; they have pride and pluck and power, and can be made a pride and glory to our common country. There is everything there which heart can desire, save only their present needs. How shall we feed and clothe these guilty people—we who were guilty with them with our wicked compromises. We owe them assistance this Winter, and after that they can take care of themselves. They need education, but they must have now material aid, and the government should do what it can if it takes $20,000,000, and who would gainsay the expenditure. [Applause.]

Gen. FISKE was then introduced, and was received with applause.

SPEECH OF GEN. FISKE.

I could not tell you how many people are suffering below the Ohio. I do not think the statements in all the public prints are true, but there is an immense deal of suffering everywhere, of destitution in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. The drouth has destroyed the crops, and not enough food to last to the month of March. We find that actual destitution need be apprehended. I think the South should do all they can to take care of their own poor, but they don't know how to do it. They have never had Poor Houses before, although in many counties they are now doing so. The physical relief is a great thing, but they have educational and religious wants. The negroes learn far down South; there are many who can't read their a-b abs in Virginia and South Carolina. There are some excellent schools in Georgia, taught by the teachers of the American Missionary Society, and they are doing a great deal of good. The colored people are hungering and thirsting for knowledge and religious instruction. They also work; they are not the lazy, shiftless people we hear of; some of them are, of course, but those in Tennessee are all industrious and glad to work, for they are paid honestly for their labor. Give them fair play and the whole industrial problem is solved. The new South Carolina law has a whole column of instructions as to when they shall work, how long, &c. Of course they must work; they will be idle under these circumstances. They have been told they were to have lands, and now they are waiting for the land; they believed the soldiers, and Congress, and their masters, and it has been a difficult task for me to undeceive them. I had to tell them that the law has been for the present suspended, and most of them went to work. There are hundreds and thousands of poor old negroes who need assistance, and widows of soldiers who must be helped. The soldiers did their duty working hard for you and yours, and we owe them something and must provide for them. I have 10,000 women and children on the Ohio shoeless and hatless, and need to be taken care of. I beseech you to help them and hand over to this treasury some help. The President said to me yesterday: "We must follow the indications of Providence. Many say, oh, he was born in the South, and must do justice to the blacks." I saw the great tears flow down his cheeks as he said, "I am determined to do justice to these people. [Applause.] That good man President LINCOLN made them free, and I am determined they shall be. [Applause.] I am resolved they shall have a fair chance and that justice shall be done them. If the people of the North could know how I am badgered and hampered, if they could know of the difficulties which surround me, they would think I have something to do. And in regard to the suspension of the Freedmen's Bureau, I say it will be discontinued when the people of the South treat the colored people with justice and fairness. Take back your resignation, Sir; go back to your work and do the best you can and I'll stand by you." [Applause.] I tell you my friends I came away from that interview more than ever convinced of the honest patriotism of ANDREW JOHNSON. [Applause.] And I tell you we must carry him on the pinions of our prayers to God, and stand firmly by him, sustaining and encouraging him in his great and good work.

Gen. FISKE then urged the commission by the people of Brooklyn of Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER, directing him to report to him at his headquarters at Nashville for duty, saying that he would guarantee his safety throughout the South, where the friendly words of love and sympathy which he would utter would be of inestimable benefit to the cause of the Union and of the desired fraternity. Concluding, he expressed the hope that the people of the North would send to the South bibles and testaments and teachers, and give such evidence of regard as will reunite the whole people of the land. [Applause.]

At the conclusion of Gen. FISKE's remarks a series of resolutions were read expressive of the views of the meeting. They were unanimously adopted; after which the meeting adjourned.

Fires.

FIRE IN WALL-STREET.

Yesterday morning, at 3 o'clock, smoke was seen issuing from the windows of the third floor of office No. 62 Wall-street. The alarm being given, the department were soon in possession of the premises and the fire under control before attaining to importance. It is supposed to have originated by some unextinguished embers, left in a grate, falling out upon the floor. The damage does not exceed $500, covered by insurance.

Another trifling fire occurred in Twenty-third-street; damage immaterial.

CITY POLITICS.

Mozart Hall City Convention.

MR. JOHN HECKER NOMINATED FOR MAYOR AND MR. O'GORMAN FOR CORPORATION COUNSEL.

The Mozart Hall Democracy met at their headquarters last evening, pursuant to adjournment, Mr. BENJAMIN B. FAIRCHILD presiding.

Mr. GEO. SHEA, Chairman of the committee appointed to confer with the Tammany Hall committee, reported that the conference had taken place yesterday, and that he had never in his life been so humbled, humiliated and insulted as he was then. He saw at once that the conference was a mere farce, and that nothing could possibly come of it. The Tammany committee informed him that they had no proposals to make, but were ready to listen to any that his committee had to offer. Mr. SHEA then informed them that Mozart Hall had already agreed upon a candidate for Mayor, but that they were willing to accept the Tammany nominee for Corporation Counsel. This proposition was declined, as was another to accept their nominee for the Mayoralty. The conference then ended, and Mr. SHEA said he hoped it was the last that would ever take place between the two organizations.

Mr. JOHN MCCOOL moved that FERNANDO WOOD be nominated for Mayor by acclamation.

The motion was adopted, and a committee having waited on Mr. WOOD, that gentleman soon afterward entered the room.

Mr. WOOD said that gratified and flattered as he felt by the honor conferred upon him, he was compelled to decline it. He then spoke of the ingratitude of the citizens of New-York toward him after all the sacrifices he had made for them; said that the office of Mayor was one that no man need be ambitious of holding; that the Mayor was head of the City Government only in name; that he, Mr. WOOD, was deeply interested as a tax-payer in the selection of a man who would do his duty honestly as Mayor, and advised them to unite upon Mr. JOHN HECKER as their nominee.

Mr. GEORGE SHEA moved that Mr. JOHN HECKER be nominated for Mayor and Mr. RICHARD O'GORMAN for Corporation Counsel. The motion was carried. Committees were appointed to wait on both gentlemen and inform them of their nominations, and the convention then adjourned.

The Tammany City Convention.

NOMINATION OF RECORDER HOFFMAN FOR MAYOR, AND RICHARD O'GORMAN FOR CORPORATION COUNSEL.

The Tammany City Convention held its adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon, at Tammany Hall, for the nomination of candidates for Mayor and Corporation Counsel. The meeting was fully attended by the several ward delegations.

Mr. ISAAC BELL being called to the chair, the convention proceeded to business. After some various reports were made by committees, it was moved and seconded that the convention proceed to select candidates for Mayor and city officers. The motion was adopted.

Recorder JOHN T. HOFFMAN was offered by Mr. F. I. A. BOOLE, who moved that his election be made by acclamation. This proposition was, however, not accepted, as the name of Hon. ELIJAH F. PURDY was also offered. The ballotings then proceeded, but were interrupted by the reading of the following letter from Mr. PURDY, declining to accept the proposed nomination:

NO. 83 LUDLOW-STREET, Tuesday, Nov. 21, 1865.

Isaac Bell, Esq., Chairman:

SIR: I notice in the Express of last evening, that my name was proposed as candidate for nomination of Mayor, in the Mayoralty Convention of the Democratic party assembled at Tammany Hall yesterday.

Proud, as I am, of the good opinion of my brother Democrats, I must frankly say to you, as I have to others, that I am not a candidate for the office.

Your fellow-citizen, ELIJAH F. PURDY.

A few votes being given to Mr. BOOLE, it was explained that the City Inspector was not a candidate, and that a scattering vote would not represent Mr. BOOLE's strength in the convention.

Mr. BOOLE said he wished to have Recorder HOFFMAN elected by acclamation, and he was not a candidate for the office of Mayor.

A delegate from the Eleventh Ward stated that Mr. BOOLE was the candidate of that ward, and that they presented him as such, claiming that he ought to have the nomination. The whole Eleventh Ward delegation accordingly voted for Mr. BOOLE.

During the canvass JOHN VAN BUREN received one vote, and several of the votes cast for Mr. BOOLE were changed to HOFFMAN. Mr. BOOLE, on the call of the roll having ceased, moved to make the nomination of JOHN T. HOFFMAN by acclamation, and the delegation from the Eleventh Ward having withdrawn their candidate, the nomination of Recorder HOFFMAN was made unanimous.

A motion then prevailed to proceed to ballot for a candidate for the office of Corporation Counsel. Mr. DEVELIN was announced as not a candidate for reelection. RICHARD O'GORMAN was then named amid applause, and the ballot proceeded.

From the canvass it appeared that Mr. O'GORMAN would poll at least a two-third vote, JAMES T. BRADY receiving one vote, although announced as not a candidate. ABRAHAM R. LAWRENCE, Jr., was the only opposing candidate, and when the Twentieth Ward delegation were called upon to vote, they withdrew Mr. LAWRENCE as a candidate, with thanks for the handsome vote he had received.

It was then moved that Mr. O'GORMAN receive the unanimous vote of the convention, which was carried. Committees were appointed by the chair to wait upon the successful candidates, and pending their report Hon. JOHN VAN BUREN was called upon to address the meeting.

Before the convention adjourned, Mr. O'GORMAN made his appearance and accepted the nomination just made. Recorder HOFFMAN has also signified his intention of running on the nomination made by the Tammany Convention.

Tammany Aldermanic Nominations.

The Tammany Aldermanic Convention met last evening, and nominated the following candidates: Second District, THOMAS COMAN; Fourth, CHARLES MCBREEN; Sixth, JOSEPH SHANNON; Eighth, WILLIAM L. ELY; Tenth, BARNARD REILLY; Twelfth, adjourned to this (Wednesday) evening; Fourteenth, JAMES IRVING.

In the Sixteenth District PATRICK RUSSELL was nominated but declined. A committee was appointed to confer with other Democratic organizations, after which the convention adjourned to await the result of the conference.

Meeting of the German Union Committee.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the German Union Committee, held at No. 23 Third-avenue, last night, the following resolution was reported by a special committee composed of Messrs. STEINBRENNER, WEIL and BOMMER, and was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The administration of the City of New-York by its corruption and squandering of the public money has burdened the inhabitants of the city with an enormous tax, so that a reform has become imperative.

Whereas, The management of the municipal affairs, and particularly the important office of Mayor, should be given to thorough honest and competent men; and

Whereas, The great loyal Union party of New-York has an abundance of such men, and certainly deserves to be intrusted with the government of this city, since it has been again intrusted with the government of the whole country and of our State; be it

Resolved, That we consider it a wise and the best policy to make nominations for city officers from the ranks of the Union party; that we earnestly request the Union organizations to abstain from all affiliations and compromises with other and so-called independent organizations, (more or less hostile to our party,) and that we pledge ourselves that the German Unionists of New-York will heartily support the Union nominations.

THE NEW-YORK HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The Sixty-first Anniversary—Addresses by the President, Frederick De Peyster, Dr. Osgood, and Gen. Rosecrans.

The New-York Historical Society held its sixty-first anniversary last evening, at the hall corner of Second-avenue and Eleventh-street, Mr. J. ROMEYN BROADHEAD, President.

The Historical Society was organized on the 20th day of Nov., 1804, by EGBERT BENSON, DEWITT CLINTON, PETER G. STUYVESANT, JOHN PINTARD, and others. Mr. BENSON was elected its first President. The collection of a library was begun in 1807, by the purchase of a considerable number of books relating to the history of America, which, together with liberal donations, soon formed a valuable historical library. The Legislature granted the society an Act of Incorporation in 1809, "for the purpose of discovering, procuring and preserving whatever may relate to the natural, civil, literary and ecclesiastical history of the United States in general, and of this State in particular." This act expired, and was renewed on the 10th of Feb., 1826, and again on the 2d of Feb., 1846. In 1856, the Legislature passed an act authorizing the exemption of the library edifice and site from execution whenever obtained, and the present site purchased and the building now occupied by the society erected.

It is now proposed to establish an Historical Museum and Gallery of Art in the Central Park. An act has been passed by the Legislature granting permission; and committees have been appointed to confer with the Central Park Commissioners and to raise the necessary funds to carry out the project. The Central Park Commissioners have set apart five acres of land for the proposed museum, to be free from tax. The means required in the erection of the building are to be provided by the society; and whenever the grounds cease to be used for the purpose specified, the property will revert to the State.

Many valuable legacies have been made to the Historical Society, and its collection of books, stationery, and curiosities is one of the most valuable in the city. The statues, paintings and Egyptian collection of the society are exceedingly interesting. Several legacies have been left to the society, including one in 1832, of three hundred dollars, by ISAIAH THOMAS, of Worcester, Mass.; one in 1849, of five thousand dollars, by Miss ELIZABETH DEMILT, and one in 1858, of ten thousand dollars, by SETH GROSVENOR.

The audience was not large last evening, owing to the inclement weather. Many well-known gentlemen were present, including Gen. ROSECRANS, Dr. OSGOOD and Judge KIRKLAND.

Mr. FREDERICK DE PEYSTER, President of the Society, read an interesting paper on "The Influence of Libraries upon Human Progress." The speaker briefly adverted to the distracted state of the country at the time of the last anniversary of the society, and the noble part which the State of New-York had taken in the recent war. Peace has returned, and this war of unexampled magnitude has been brought to an auspicious close. The speaker referred to the extinction of slavery, and said that it is proper that we should rejoice that liberty prevails throughout the land. The Declaration of Independence declared that all men were born free and equal. For eighty years that principle has been in a state of probation. Now, throughout an effort to make slavery the corner-stone of the nation, that monster has been crushed, and the declaration that all men are created free and equal has been realized. Mr. DE PEYSTER referred to the fact that the society had been granted permission to erect a Museum and Gallery of Art at Central Park. A committee of the society conferred with the Commissioners of the Central Park and on the 3d of October last, the latter granted five acres of the park, free of taxation, for the erection and use of such a museum; and on the 16th of the same month the deed for the ground was made out. The speaker said that the public libraries of this country would prove an everlasting blessing to the people. He referred to the collection of the Historical Society, which was exceedingly valuable, and highly appreciated by the public. The present building of the society will be required for the uses to which it is now devoted. The space occupied by collections of ancient curiosities will be required for books. The speaker then discussed the effect of libraries on science, literature and art. Among the Hebrews two forces were continually active—divine revelation and the literature of the nation. The effect of their literature was to make the Jews the leading people of the world. The speaker gave a chronological sketch of the great libraries of the ancients. The library of Alexandria was the great storehouse of learning of the world for nearly a thousand years. The libraries of Greece and Rome were successively referred to, and their effects upon those nations depicted. The monks, the speaker said, were much divided in their taste for books; but the prevailing custom was for monasteries to destroy the most valuable works. After the discovery of the art of printing, books multiplied rapidly, Works of genius is one of the great agents of human progress. The speaker criticized the works of HOMER, DANTE, SHAKESPEARE and BUCKLE, attempting to show that their materials were in part the reproduction, in different forms, of what had been previously written. The speaker considered the effect of a large library upon the moral and religious ideas of a people. The progress of the human race is toward Christianity, and whatever exercises a salutary and moral effect upon the public is important. It is not easy to estimate the effect of libraries upon the progress of Christianity. He said that the library of the Historical Society need not be restricted to history, but should embrace literature, science and art. The City of New-York is so situated as to exercise a great influence upon the destiny of the nation. When we reflect upon the probable future of the country, we will realize the responsibility that rests upon us. For the first time a nation has been established which is devoted to universal freedom. Mr. DE PEYSTER inquired what greater work could be done for posterity than to found a metropolitan library of literature, science and art, worthy of the nation.

Dr. OSGOOD moved a vote of thanks to the speaker in a few remarks. He said that he was pleased to hear the patriotic tone of the discourse. It was pleasant to find that America is not intoxicated in the hour of victory—accepting victory, but not demanding triumph. The speaker referred to the modesty of Gen. GRANT, who modestly accepted victory, but shrank from triumph.

The thanks of the society were then returned to Mr. DE PEYSTER, and a copy of his address requested for the archives of the society.

Major-Gen. ROSECRANS was introduced amid loud applause. He said he was surprised to know that he was an honory member of so honorable a society as the Historical Society of New-York. It was a great gratification to him to know that there were men engaged in making a valuable historical collection for the use of prosperity.

The society then adjourned.

Examination of Charles J. Roberts for Manufacturing Counterfeit Currency.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE.

Before Commissioner Newton.

The defendant, who was arrested on Tuesday last on the charge of being implicated with a gang of persons engaged in the manufacture of counterfeit fractional currency, was arraigned before Commissioner Newton yesterday for examination.

R. R. LOWELL was the first witness sworn. He testified to being a detective in the Treasury Department, and that he arrested the prisoner in Myrtle-avenue, Brooklyn, on the 14th inst. Mr. J. A. OTTO was with witness; prisoner was in company with Mr. LAWRENCE (present in court.) They were sitting on a stoop or platform at the time of the arrest.

A printer, whose name is suppressed at the request of the court, testified that he had been acquainted with the prisoner eight years; the last he knew of his movements was in Williamsburgh some two months since; he is a married man; witness is a printer, not an engraver, and was employed by prisoner and another man named STEWART a year ago last Spring; prisoner is an engraver by trade; the work was done at Maspeth; did not know whether he engraved the plates exhibited or not: heard him say that he was engraving a set of plates; this was before witness was employed there; said the plates he was engraving were fifty cent postal currency of the new kind; this was about three weeks before witness went to work for him; did not say at that time that he was engraving any other kind of plate, but he has said so since; said he was getting up another set, but did not state the denomination, whether it was for currency or bank bills, or where he was getting them up; after the currency was struck off, some of it was given to Mr. Stewart; did not know whether Roberts got any of it; it was all taken away from the house, and some of it destroyed; the house was searched a year ago last July; it was burnt up on that account; Mr. Roberts was present most of the time we were printing the notes; he aided in printing them.

On his cross-examination witness stated that he lived in Myrtle-avenue, Brooklyn; had served an apprenticeship to the printing, and also to the painting business; was not doing anything at present; had been out of employment for five weeks; previous to that time was engaged as printer in Seventeenth-street, Philadelphia, with a man named RANCE AVERS; had known him three months; made his acquaintance in New-York, (witness declined to state the nature of the work he was engaged on;) was in the employ of the Bank Note Company in New-York for four or five months; before that followed the occupation of paper-hanger in Brooklyn, and before that did nothing during the Winter; when idle witness lived with his mother in Myrtle-avenue; witness had been acquainted with Mr. LOWELL for about two months; was indirectly employed by him to do whatever was seemed fit at his dictation; was employed to aid him in finding out counterfeiters; was never employed as a witness before; could not tell how much LOWELL had paid him since he had been in his employ; witness came before the court because he was compelled to come.

The further examination was adjourned to Friday next.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

THE STORM IN BROOKLYN.—The heavy rains yesterday and the night previous caused the flood to rise over the string-pieces of the Atlantic Dock, some 18 inches in height, and causing the involuntary emigration of entire colonies of rats from the storehouses, some thousands of which were drowned. When the tide subsided, the wharves were so thickly strewn with their dead carcasses that it was difficult to walk without treading on them. The occupants of the shanties at Tinkerville had a hard time of it. The tide rose some four feet over the door-sills before daylight, compelling the men to evacuate, while the women and children sought refuge on chairs, tables, boxes, or anything else that would bear them. The tide fell during the forenoon, and left them in a better condition.

SERENADE TO THE NEW COLLECTOR OF TAXES.—A number of the friends of ISAAC BADEAU, Esq., the newly elected Collector of Taxes and Assessments, treated him to a serenade at his residence No. 266 Jay-street, on Monday night. CONNER's Brass Band furnished the music. After playing a number of favorite airs the company was invited into the house and partook of a sumptuous collation. Congratulatory addresses were made and a social time generally was had.

DOING WELL.—Officer THOMAS LANGDON, of the Forty-fifth Precinct Police, who was shot by burglars on Sunday night last, is in an improving condition. The inflamation in his throat having subsided, there is some prospect that the ball which penetrated the neck may soon be extracted. The symptoms so far are very favorable.

Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Hair Dressing the hair has greatly thickened upon my head, and put on a very healthy appearance. The same is true of my daughter; her hair had become thin and came out constantly, until we thought the head would be almost bare; her hair has handsomely thickened up, and also has a healthful appearance."

Renewed his Age.

REV. M. THATCHER, of New-York, in a letter, says: "My age is sixty. One year ago my hair was very gray and falling. I used Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer according to directions, and now my hair is restored to its natural color, and has ceased to fall.

The Zylobalsamum I have found the best and most agreeable hair dressing I have ever used."

Valuable Testimony.

REV. A. WEBSTER, Boston, Mass., writes: "I have used, through the advice of personal friends, Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Zylobalsamum, for several months past, with great effect and entire satisfaction. I am now neither bald nor gray; my hair was dry and brittle, but has regained the softness of its earlier years."

For Children's Hair.

MRS. CLARK, wife of Rev. D. W. Clark, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes: "I have used Mrs. S. A. Allen's Zylobalsamum with much satisfaction in dressing my own and children's hair. After trying various articles, I feel no hesitation in recommending yours as the best I have ever used. It gives the hair a soft, glossy appearance, and retains it in any position desired."

His Wife Approves.

REV. I. MOORE, late agent American Bible Union, writes: "I have used Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Hair Dressing, and it has also been used by my wife. We unqualifiedly pronounced them the best preparations we have ever used—in which declaration many friends join us."

A Fine Head of Hair.

REV. J. H. CORNELL, New-York City, says in a letter: "I procured Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Zylobalsamum for a relative. I am happy to say it prevented the falling off of the hair, and restored it from being gray to its natural glossy and beautiful black."

Get the Best.

REV. C. A. BUCKBEE, Treasurer of the American Bible Union, New-York, writes: "I very cheerfully add my testimony to that of numerous other friends, to Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and Zylobalsamum. The latter I have found superior to anything I have ever used."

REV. J. WEST. No. 6 Washington-place, Pacific-st., Brooklyn, L. I., says, in a letter: "I am happy to bear my testimony to the value and efficacy of Mrs. S. A. Allen's World's Hair Restorer and World's Hair Dressing, in the most liberal sense. They have restored my hair where it was bald, and where gray, to its original color."
